STRIKERS GUILTY SAYS THE COURT

They Were Charged With Obstructing the Street While on Picket Duty

Several Assault and Battery Cases Were Heard Today—Disposition of One of Them Postponed Until Thursday

A large number of cases were tried before Judge Pickman at the session of the police court this morning, and among them were two of the strikers at the Merrimack mill who were found guilty of violating the city ordinances by obstructing the sidewalk and disturbing the peace by shouting.

The men arraigned were Peter Anastopoulos who was charged with obstructing Merrimack street and Theodore Apostolopoulos who was arrested for obstructing the sidewalk. The two men were in the picket line this morning in the vicinity of the Merrimack mill. Peter it is claimed was standing on the sidewalk and when he was ordered to move along, he declined to do so and the result was that he was sent to the station for obstructing the sidewalk. He entered a plea of guilty and a fine of $3 was imposed.

Theodore, it is claimed, kept parading in the street and shouting, despite the fact that he had been told to shut up several times. Finally he was placed under arrest for disturbing the peace and when his case was called he entered a plea of guilty and was fined $5.

Assault and Battery

Joseph A. Pleau who was charged with assault and battery on Frederick A. Taylor, the gravel roofer, admitted his guilt and a fine of $20 was imposed. The testimony in this case was to the effect that the complainant was doing work in Cabot street yesterday when the defendant came along and without any reason grabbed him by the coat and pulled him out of his wagon. The defendant claimed he did it because he had a grudge against Taylor, for as he said he owed him 15 cents in back wages.

JURY DECIDES AGAINST LAWYER

Who Had Entered Suit for $5000

The case of Tow vs. Zimberg which was started at superior court yesterday came to a close this morning, when the two parties involved came to a settlement out of court. This was an action of tort in the sum of $5000 brought by Tow for alleged injuries received while at work at the foundry of the defendant in Cambridge.

The next case to go to trial was that of Alexander P. Browne, an attorney of Boston who sued the Boston Elevated railroad company for alleged injuries received when three collisions occurred on the road and the defendant company in the subway in Boston between Allen and Scollay squares at 2:20 o'clock in the afternoon of January 17, 1912. The plaintiff in his declaration claimed his injuries were so serious that he was forced to go to Jacksonville, Florida in order to recuperate. The defendant entered a plea of not guilty. The jury reported a verdict in favor of the defendant company.

IRONWOOD, Mich., May 14.—Thirteen men were killed in a cave-in at the Norrie mine here at 11 o'clock last night.

THE RIVER ROAD BILL HEARING HELD TODAY

Large Delegation Attended From This City and All Favored the Measure

Before the ways and means committee of the legislature at Boston today, a hearing was held on the bill to appropriate a sum sufficient to complete the river road so-called, between Lowell and Lawrence, the expense to be met jointly by the state and the counties in the proportion of 75 per cent and 25 per cent respectively. There was a delegation from Lowell, including Secretary Murphy of the board of trade, James E. Donnelly, Ex-Senator Hubbard, Robert Marden, Fred Horne, representing the Automobile association and Warren Fox of Draught. Several of the delegation including Secretary Murphy and Robert Marden spoke in favor of the measure. The entire delegation from Lowell and Draught favored the bill.

Representative Willard went before the ways and means committee and said the bill had been approved by the committee on roads and bridges.

No final action has yet been taken on the bill to establish the Merrimack Valley board, but the general impression is that it will not go through in its present form.

Colonel the Whole Show
Another rally which brought a similar response was made at Cambridge. Speaking there of the job Mr. Roosevelt said the people wanted him to do. President Taft asked:

"Suppose Mr. Roosevelt were wanted to the skies in a chariot, like the prophet of old, and were to disappear from sight, how do you suppose this country would get along, anyhow?"

"My friends, it is a dangerous thing to put in the White House a man for the third term with his views of himself, in every announcement he makes you would think he was the whole show. It is I, I, I, and therefore I say that if you feel that vanity and that egotism by giving him something that Washington did not get, and Jefferson did not get, and Jackson did not get, and Grant could not get, you are going to put him in office with a sense of power and with a view of constitutionality at restriction that will be dangerous to this country."

Mr. Taft compared Col. Roosevelt and Lincoln with a smile.

"Mr. Roosevelt likens himself to Abraham Lincoln more and resembles him less than any man in the history of this country," he remarked during the day.

THE LOWELL "COPS" WON IN NINTH INNING RALLY

Scored 7 Runs and Defeated Metropolitan Park Team 13 to 12

—John Kelly the Hero

By a garrison finish the Lowell police ball team defeated the Metropolitan park team at Spalding park today by the score of 13 to 12. The game was one of the most exciting ever seen and in the last inning with three on bases and two out, the score 12 to 10 in favor of the visitors, King Kelly hit the ball to the center field fence clearing the bases and turning a double into victory. The players of the Lowell team as well as the spectators went wild with excitement. It was a great catch and one of the humorous blunders said: "You'll be made sergeant."

The Lowell team came to bat in the ninth inning with the score 12 to 10. Many had given up all hope of even scoring. When Kelly came to bat and walked, Lynch sent him home on a clout to the outfield that went for a home run as it was booted. Drewett then singled. Jack McCarthy came to the bat and with two strikes on him, sent the ball to the fence and he too came home on a boot.

Al Conney, who by the way did some great coaching on the first base line, was next at bat, and despite the fact that Manager Donovan told him to make a home run he fanned the bunnies. Kenny then did the same. Mike Winn was hit by a pitched ball and took first. Donovan batted for Quinlan and made good with a single. Connors was hit by the pitcher, making three on. Kelly came to bat for the second time in the inning and made the whiff that ended the game.

Mike Winn's catch in left field off McCarthy was a great stunt. He dived for the ball and held it.

The Metropolitan team thought the game was all sewed up, so did everybody else, but the unexpected happened and the Lowell players were cheered on all sides at the end of the game. Out side of the hit by Kelly in the final inning, the pitching of A. J. Prusdale of the visitors was the feature. The latter fanned 10 of the Lowell batters and had he received good support would have won hands down. He had a great assortment of curves and in every pitch but the last, tightened up in great style.

McCarthy who pitched for Lowell worked well outside of the first inning when the visitors scored five runs. He fanned five men and allowed 18 hits. The visitors had five errors while the Lowell men made two misplays.

The lineups of the teams were as follows:

Lowell Metropolitan Park
Kelly 2b Kelly 2b
Lynch 2b Lynch 2b
Drewett 2b Drewett 2b
McCarthy 2b McCarthy 2b
Connors 1b Connors 1b
Quinlan 1b Quinlan 1b
Winn 1b Winn 1b
Conners 1b Conners 1b
Empires Shea of Lowell and Harrigan of Revere.

Score by innings:
1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Lowell 2 0 1 3 0 0 5 7-13

PRESIDENT TAFT ATTACKS ROOSEVELT

He Classes Opponent's Methods as Libelous

SAYS ROOSEVELT IS NOT SINCERE

The President Criticised Colonel's Position

STEN RENVILLE, O., May 14.—President Taft's first day for his final campaign tour of Ohio, which came to an end with a speech here last night, was marked by the most pronounced assaults upon Col. Theodore Roosevelt, to which Mr. Taft so far has given public utterance.

In speeches which were filled with indignant attack, and with uncompromisingly direct criticism, Mr. Taft discharged his oratory at his predecessor in the White House.

Although in substance all of the dozen speeches the president made yesterday were much like those he delivered in Massachusetts and Maryland, they differed widely at times in the words used to score Mr. Roosevelt. These were unusual and pungent and gave his hearers opportunity for applause and laughter which seldom failed.

One of the attacks on Mr. Roosevelt which raised a laugh delivered at Denison last night was like this:

"I think I will with Mr. Roosevelt's present constitutional views and with the intoxication he would necessarily feel by reason of getting something that all the great presidents have never gotten, it would not be safe to put him in the White House again."

"He says the reason the American people are going to elect him is because he is necessary for the job. That is the description he gives. Well, I hope the American people will not think that he is necessary for the job."

"I want to call your attention to what the job is which he proposes. It is the millennium that he is going to bring about when he gets into office. All bosses are going to disappear, politicians are going to be fewer, and he is going to have a finger in every community in every state. In every county and everything is going to be heaven. I hope the American people will not think that he is necessary for the job."

"If that be true the millennium is coming and that is the job he is to do. It is going to take longer than four years. I beg of you to ask him when he comes here whether he would take a fourth term, ask him whether he is going to take a fifth term, and why he should not continue in office during his life."

Another rally which brought a similar response was made at Cambridge. Speaking there of the job Mr. Roosevelt said the people wanted him to do. President Taft asked:

"Suppose Mr. Roosevelt were wanted to the skies in a chariot, like the prophet of old, and were to disappear from sight, how do you suppose this country would get along, anyhow?"

"My friends, it is a dangerous thing to put in the White House a man for the third term with his views of himself, in every announcement he makes you would think he was the whole show. It is I, I, I, and therefore I say that if you feel that vanity and that egotism by giving him something that Washington did not get, and Jefferson did not get, and Jackson did not get, and Grant could not get, you are going to put him in office with a sense of power and with a view of constitutionality at restriction that will be dangerous to this country."

Mr. Taft compared Col. Roosevelt and Lincoln with a smile.

"Mr. Roosevelt likens himself to Abraham Lincoln more and resembles him less than any man in the history of this country," he remarked during the day.

PERJURY CHARGE AGAINST FERRIS

Trial of the Case Begun in the Suffolk County Court House in Boston

The Defendant Was Indicted by Middlesex County Grand Jury—Case Grew Out of the County Ring Investigation

In the Suffolk county criminal court yesterday at Boston, the case of Commonwealth vs. Geo. A. Ferris, formerly an officer at the Lowell jail, was called. The charge against Mr. Ferris is perjury brought on an indictment by the Middlesex county grand jury. This case grows from the investigation of the "county ring" and is of the same character as the Palmer case recently tried. At the investigation in question, it is alleged, that the defendant testified that the family of the late Harry E. Shaw used trip books which were intended for his use alone as a county official.

District Attorney Higgins appeared for the Commonwealth and counsel for defendant are Henry P. Hurlbert, Arthur Brooks of Boston and George F. Royce of Lowell.

Most of the time yesterday was taken up in skirmishes between counsel on points of law and the reading of the stenographic notes of the grand jury testimony.

Today's Session

The case of the Commonwealth against George A. Ferris, formerly an officer at the Lowell jail, who was indicted for perjury by a Middlesex county grand jury, which was opened before Judge Chase and a jury in the second session of the criminal court at the court house in Pemberton square yesterday, was resumed at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Frank R. Gokey, who was clerk of the Middlesex county grand jury which heard the testimony in the so-called "county ring" investigation, was the first witness called. His testimony was practically along the same line as that brought out during the Jackson Palmer case which was heard in East Cambridge last year.

Witness testified that on July 18, 1911 the grand jury filed a report at East Cambridge.

Lawyer Hurlbert on cross examination asked: "Did Mr. Higgins draw up that report?"

"He did not," was the answer.

"Who did?"

"The grand jury."

Witness then testified that Mr. Ferris testified relative to the condition at the Lowell jail before the grand jury and among the other witnesses were the Middlesex county commissioners and officials at the Lowell jail.

Further questioned by Lawyer Hurlbert, witness said that Mr. Michael J. Sughrue informed the grand jury that he had made an investigation of the conditions in Middlesex county and stated that there was an extravagance at the Lowell jail and that many unnecessary repairs had been made at the jail, especially in the installation of a new bath room at that place.

Mr. Gokey was put through a rigid cross-examination by Lawyer Hurlbert and the witness frequently asked that the question be repeated and after the question had been repeated he had a lapse of memory and at times said that he could not recall what different witnesses testified before the grand jury.

At this point District Attorney Higgins and Lawyer Hurlbert got into an argument relative to the admission of certain testimony which had been testified to by the witness at another trial. The court allowed certain questions to be asked but ruled out the others.

Arthur J. Travers

Arthur J. Travers, who was a member of the grand jury, testified that the session of the grand jury lasted 33 days and that he heard Mr. Ferris testify. Witness then gave a number of names of persons who had offered testimony.

Continuing the witness said that Lawyer Sughrue had testified relative to conditions at the Lowell jail, stating that Mr. Sughrue spoke of certain cotton waste, also about a bath room that had been installed, unnecessary repairs of the steam heating plant, the using of officers as coachmen and the use of county property by a club.

"Was anything said about Mr. Shaw selling a horse?" was asked by the district attorney.

"Yes, sir," was the answer.

Witness said that Mr. Sughrue in testifying before the grand jury relative to conditions at the Lowell jail said that he had not made a personal investigation, that he had received the information from different sources.

Gross Examination

On cross-examination by Lawyer Hurlbert the witness gave the names of the various witnesses who testified before the grand jury.

The witness said that Mr. Sughrue gave the grand jury an opinion that Sheriff Fairbairn should remove Mr. Shaw on account of extravagance and that the sale of horses and carriages and cotton waste was illegal. Witness also said in answer to a question asked by Lawyer Brooks said that the delivery of goods to the Vesper-Country club was unlawful.

At this point testimony relative to the testimony of Jackson Palmer, found guilty of perjury by a Middlesex county jury, was referred to by the district attorney and the witness said that he heard Mr. Palmer testify.

Sheriff Fairbairn
Sheriff John R. Fairbairn of Middlesex county, who testified yesterday, was recalled and testified relative to what he told at the hearing before the grand jury.

The witness said that he knows Mr. Ferris, the defendant, and that the latter was an officer at the house of correction for a month and that on April 30, 1904, he was transferred to the Lowell jail where he remained until 1908.

"Did the defendant ever mention anything to you about Mr. Shaw using tickets furnished by the county for private or personal traveling, either by himself or family?" was asked.

The answer was in the negative.

On cross-examination Sheriff Fairbairn said that he had been informed by a person, who was not employed at the jail, that mattresses and bedding had been taken from the jail to the Vesper-Country club during the automobile races held over the Merrimack Valley course several years ago.

At this point a short recess was taken.

Hurricane A. Edgcombe, a shorthand reporter with an office at Barristers hall in Boston, was called after the recess. He testified that he took a portion of the testimony of the witnesses before the grand jury.

The witness said five note books containing a stenographic report of the proceedings before the grand jury, and referring to the testimony offered by Mr. Ferris, read a portion of the latter's testimony in which he said that the cost of railroad tickets between Lowell and Boston was excessive. The report also showed that Mr. Ferris had testified he knew that the family used tickets and had heard the wife and daughters ask Mr. Shaw for tickets at least five times.

At the request of Lawyer Hurlbert witness read from his notes, the testimony offered by Mr. Ferris. According to the stenographic notes read by witness, Mr. Ferris testified that Mr. Shaw was in the habit of swapping off cows and that after the cows had been milked the cream was sent to Mr. Shaw's house and the skimmed milk was given to the prisoners. Prior to Mr. Shaw's taking charge of the jail the milk was purchased by the county as cows were not kept on the premises.

After the witness had been reading from his notes for about ten minutes District Attorney Higgins offered a typewritten copy of Mr. Ferris' testimony to Lawyer Hurlbert and the latter spent about 15 minutes in perusing the testimony.

Mrs. Carter

The next witness called was Mrs. Alice Shaw Carter, daughter of the late Harry Shaw. She testified to living at the house connected with the jail from the time her father was appointed keeper until he died, in 1910. Witness said that she was married while residing at the house on the jail premises. Mrs. Carter was questioned relative to her testimony before the grand jury and she told in substance what she testified to.

"Did your father ever give you a ticket for your own private use, which to your knowledge, was a county ticket?" asked Mr. Higgins.

"No, sir."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"The Temple Players" were given a real occasion when they appeared on the stage of the Merrimack Square theatre last night in their very catchy and entitled "Songs and Dances of Ireland." The attendance at both performances yesterday was very large and the entire bill as a whole is very pleasing. The theatre is decorated with American and Irish flags and with the stage effects presents a fine appearance.

The sketch put on by the Temple Players is cleverly presented and consists of beautiful songs one after another and also of dancing which is done in good style. The solos are especially well rendered and the soloists were given several encores. The act comes to a close with Miss Hawthorne singing the beautiful song "Come Back to Erin."

Another very amusing act is that presented by Blanche Holt & Co., and entitled "The Star Boarder." The sketch is of comedy skilfully handled and is sure to please every one. The acting is well done and the four members of the company are very entertaining.

Miss Leslie Thurston, lady xylophone soloist, is indeed a real leader in her class. Her selections are sufficiently varied to suit the tastes of all, and she gives them in a strikingly clever manner. None better than Miss Thurston has been heard locally in some time.

Lightning Weston, vaudeville's best cartoonist, gives a wonderful demonstration of his skill with the crayon. His drawings include those of President Taft, former President Roosevelt, and other well known personages, as well as other figures that give him opportunity to display his marvelous ability. The drawing of the sinking of the Titanic is an interesting bit of work. Emma Cameron, the week's soloist, is heard in some of the latest and best songs.

Special mention should be made of the photo-plays. Besides being new, and the first of their kind to be shown in Lowell, they are correct portrayals taken from real life and hold interest from first to last. "An American Tourist Abroad" includes views of many of the ancient cities of Europe that are especially interesting, as well as being instructive. The views are also good. These views and photo-plays are changed three times each week and are only the biggest and best to be secured. Despite the warmth of yesterday the large crowds attending found the theatre cool and comfortable at all times.

MRS. WHITE DISCUSSED THE GIRL PROBLEM

At Meeting of Lowell Guild—Miss Coburn Reported on the "Girls' Club" Work

The members of the Lowell Guild held a largely attended and very instructive meeting yesterday at the Whistler house. Mrs. James F. Preston presided and at the opening of the meeting she introduced Mrs. Eva W. White of Boston who is prominently identified with social work as head of the Elizabeth Peabody home of Boston. Mrs. White spoke in part as follows:

"Very little has been written on the girl problem, while much attention has been given to the question of how boys shall be cared for. Apparently the impression has existed that the home influences are more closely drawn about the girl and that she is therefore less in need of outside help. This may be true to some extent, but it cannot be denied that home influences are deplorably lacking in many cases, and to meet such cases we have established homes and institutions that have richly justified themselves. In forming 'girls' clubs,' as we did in Boston, we were careful to receive all members on equal social footing. To make social distinctions in this work is to defeat your purpose. It is necessary to close our minds to the past. Comparisons are not to be permitted. More and more, as time passes, woman is undergoing a transition. This is true particularly in the east, where women are forced by their very numbers to seek their livelihood in mills, factories and stores. Women enjoy a certain freedom because of this that they did not enjoy 50 years ago. Woman's part in public affairs is growing more conspicuous. While I believe the home condition the natural condition for woman, conditions are so shaping themselves that woman's sphere must be extended. It is a very serious responsibility which faces those who are engaged in the uplift work—a responsibility which has a bearing not only on the present welfare of New England people, but upon the welfare of future generations."

"The work among girls is admittedly less encouraging than that among boys, for the reason that the boys are more responsive—they are more enthusiastic, and from their spontaneity, one gathers courage."

"With reference to exercise for girls, I would recommend that it be a little more strenuous than that to which we have accustomed ourselves, and that we should have a small amount of her pay, so that she may feel that she is not obliged to accept invitations from men friends to attend cheap picture shows or go to low dance halls."

"Home making is one of the great features of our instruction, and to produce the ideal mental condition for an ideal home is a problem which must be solved by the contact of personalities. No hard fast rule can be applied to meet every case. It is a great, patriotic work, and the results will amply justify it."

In closing the speaker gave a number of practical examples of the splendid results obtained by the Peabody institution and others of similar character."

Following this address Miss Harriet Coburn gave an encouraging report on the "Girls' Club" work in Lowell, while Miss Annie Moore, head of district nursing, and Miss Helen Chadbourne, on milk station work, also presented their reports."

The Ellis milk bill was endorsed and it was voted to ask for a general contribution of $1 up, to carry on the milk station work this summer."

The milk station report was as follows: "The winter months have brought to the milk station a new high—since with the large number with which we began the season have kept our membership roll well up and into the 90s. Even in the extreme heat of last summer, we did not go beyond these figures. It is encouraging to find so convincing a sign of growth, and it is still more encouraging to know that until the past few weeks there have been no deaths among our ranks. Next to pneumonia, and a complication of whooping cough and measles have carried off several of the babies. But none of them have died or been ill for any length of time from any intestinal trouble."

It is fair to say that probably one reason for the continued size of our milk station family is the fact that the most of the mothers are putting up their own formulae at home. If, as during last winter, they had been obliged to send to the station each day for milk, no doubt our numbers would have fallen off considerably. When we started in the fall to teach the mothers to do their own milk-making, it seemed that we were undertaking a tremendous proposition and some of us felt rather hopeless as to results. However, we have for the most part been very happily surprised and many of the mothers now measure their cream, lime water, sugar, etc., very accurately and with a good deal of pride. The home modifications are a good thing because not only do they develop the mother's sense of responsibility for her child, but they save her time and trouble in sending for the milk and they give the nurses a chance to learn more thoroughly what goes on in the homes and not only, perhaps, to "save the baby," but oftentimes to better the general home conditions. There are at present 75 home modifications. How this new departure will work in the summer time we have yet to brave."

There have been very many stormy Tuesdays and Fridays during the winter, and so our conferences have been rather poorly attended. Now that the food weather and alas! the hot weather or that brings sick babies, is coming, doubtless these meetings will increase in size. The staff doctors have been much interested and have given very kind and faithful service. The special mothers' meetings are a helpful feature. They are held twice a month and enjoyable entertainment, and in-

Instead of "fancy work" which has been a feature of girls' instruction, work of a more recreational character be substituted. You wouldn't expect to see a well-mannered boy of 14 or 15 years who had not enjoyed a full measure of healthful play. Let us have more romping, more folk dancing, more exhilarating gymnastic work among the girls whose characters we are trying to build. Let the girls get away from themselves.

"In the character development of girls, we must consider their environment and we must govern ourselves accordingly. Learn every side of the girl's life, so that your efforts may be most effective."

"One great handicap that we have to contend against in our dealings with female girls is the fact that their parents know nothing about them, and cannot cooperate with us. And when at length our work begins to bear fruit, the girls become ashamed of their parents; and that is a dangerous condition."

"When a girl first goes to work, I believe that she should be permitted to retain a small amount of her pay, so that she may feel that she is not obliged to accept invitations from men friends to attend cheap picture shows or go to low dance halls."

"Home making is one of the great features of our instruction, and to produce the ideal mental condition for an ideal home is a problem which must be solved by the contact of personalities. No hard fast rule can be applied to meet every case. It is a great, patriotic work, and the results will amply justify it."

PRESENTING MERCHANDISE VALUES GREATER THAN LOWELL HAS EVER KNOWN

This year's most important event—Our Fourth Anniversary as an organization—we want all the shopping public of Lowell and surrounding towns to help us celebrate. We have for months been planning for this anniversary on a most Gigantic Scale, with one end in view, namely, to exceed in amount of sales the marvelous business transacted on our previous Anniversary Sales, and to set a new High Record.

The Gilbride Company has proven and is proving its right to exist, with a service that grows better and better with each succeeding year—a service that not only serves, but anticipates! Today it easily leads all like existing institutions in Lowell—in volume and variety of desirable stocks and facilities for doing business.

Because this wonderful success is due entirely to your good will and patronage; because we wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for your generous support; and because the World's Best Manufacturers and Importers, now that they fully understand the magnitude of our tremendous sale, wish to co-operate with us in showing their appreciation of the great patronage that has come to them through The Gilbride Company.

We shall offer new, seasonable, desirable merchandise, in every department of our store, not "made-for-a-price" merchandise—dear at its lowest figure—but High Grade Merchandise—bright and new as the morning sun; seasonable and trustworthy; made to use and treasure as pleasant memories of our Anniversary Sale.

85TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Deacon Clark M. Langley Congratulated by His Friends

DEACON CLARK M. LANGLEY.

Deacon Clark M. Langley was given a fine reception last night at the First Universalist church, the occasion being his 85th birthday anniversary as announced in The Sun last night. It was also the 55th anniversary of the organization of the church of which Mr. Langley has been for many years a zealous and efficient worker.

The guest of the evening was presented 55 beautiful carnations by the pastor of the church, Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., who delivered a short but impressive address. Other remarks were made by Rev. J. M. Craig of the First Presbyterian church. The Sunday school pupils also presented Mr. Langley a beautiful floral offering, this being followed by the presentation of the new book entitled "The Record of a City."

Addresses of felicitations were given by Dr. McLeod, Rev. Charles T. Billings and several others, while the deacon responded in a fitting manner. Several beautiful selections were rendered by the church choir.

"PLANTING" OF DYNAMITE IS CHARGED TO BREEN

Lawrence Undertaker on Trial in the Superior Court at Salem

SALEM, May 14.—John J. Breen, an undertaker in Lawrence, was placed on trial in the superior court yesterday afternoon, charged with conspiracy in "planting" dynamite in Lawrence during the textile strike in that city.

The case for the government is being conducted by Dist. Atty. Atwell, and Hon. John Kane of Lawrence is counsel for defendant. Justice Brown is presiding. Inspector Rooney of the Boston police, who was the first witness, testified in substance that he was told by Breen that he had information of dynamite in Lawrence. Arrangements were made for an investigation. Rooney came to Lawrence but did not meet Breen at the station as expected, and on going to the police station, Breen was not there, but he appeared two hours later. Rooney with other officers went to a house on Grove street as advised by Breen and found several sticks of dynamite and some caps in the apartments of a Syrian family. The party then went to a sandbank near the Arlington mills and adjoining a cemetery, but did not discover any dynamite as had been announced would be the case. On a second visit, one hour after the first inspection, the officers found sticks of dynamite wrapped in a newspaper lying on the snow. The paper, Rooney said, was not dampened.

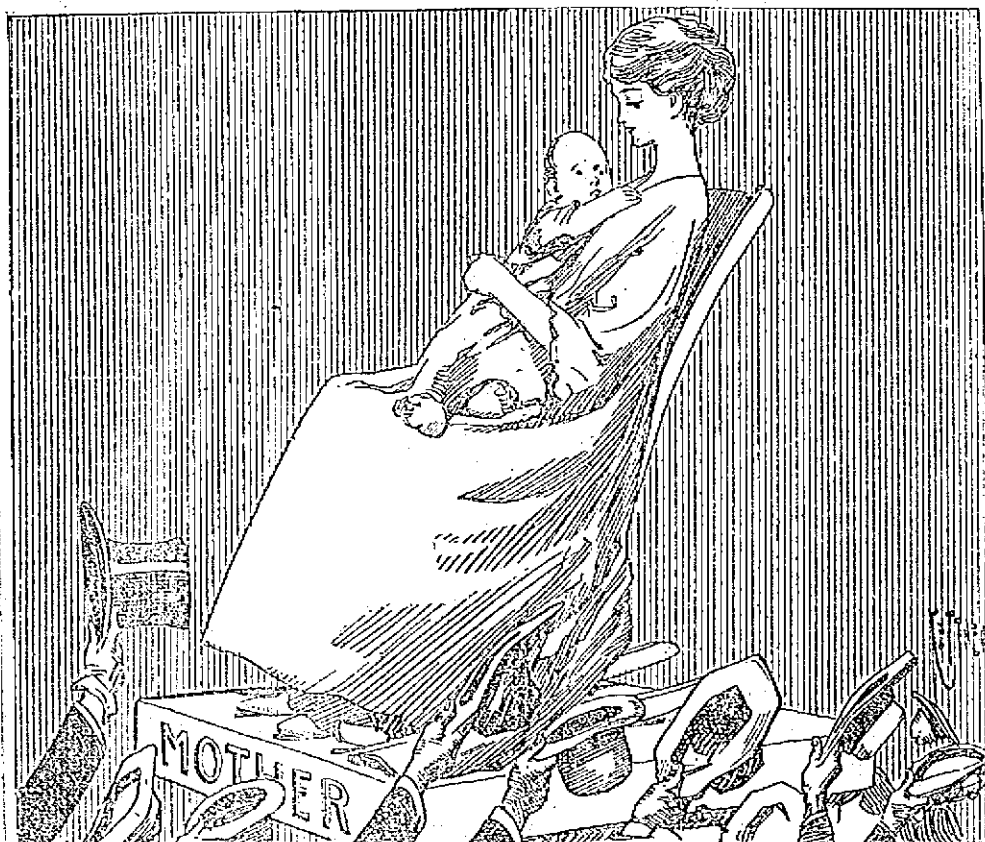

DAY OF SUSPENSE IN RICHESON CASE

BOSTON, May 14.—For Clarence V. T. Richeson, under sentence of death for the murder of Miss Avis Linnell, today was a day of suspense for it was generally expected that this was the day upon which Gov. Foss would decide whether to refer to the executive council Richeson's petition for clemency or to let the law take its course and the death penalty be imposed. The governor already has the report of one alienist, Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, who has made a study of Richeson's mental state and it was believed at the governor's office that the reports of the other three alienists, Dr. Steadman, George Tuttle and Henry P. Frost were to be submitted to the governor some time before tonight. While awaiting the governor's decision on the question of referring Richeson's plea to the executive council tomorrow the attorneys for the murderer were still hoping that the case would be submitted to the council. "I still hope that Richeson's case will be referred," said his chief counsel, W. A. Morse, today, "although there have been a number of discouraging developments regarding the course the matter is taking. To use a nautical phrase, I have held to one tack tight along and now I am hoove to."

Mr. Morse planned to call on his client at the Charles street jail later in the day. During the forenoon Mr. Morse conferred with some persons who will in the event that Richeson's petition is referred to the council offer evidence tending to corroborate the claim that the prisoner is mentally unbalanced.

Richeson has come through the trying ordeal of more than 60 hours examination by mental experts in good shape. Although it had been expected that the strain of the protracted sessions with alienists might produce a condition of collapse, Dr. G. G. Cilley, the jail physician, said that the former Baptist minister was in perfect physical condition today. Secretly continued to surround the plans for Richeson's removal from the Suffolk county jail on Charles street, where he has been confined since his arrest last October, to a cell adjoining the death chamber of the state prison at Charlestown.

It was understood that the prisoner's removal would not be deferred until Gov. Foss had indicated to Sheriff Quinn, keeper of the jail, his decision on referring the petition to the council. The sheriff desires that Richeson may have some hope left when removed to the death cell. The law provides that the removal of a prisoner from a county jail to the death house shall be made as secretly as possible. There is only one route through which vehicles may enter or leave the jailyard and it is thought that unless Richeson is carried to Charlestown in a prison van he will be removed in a carriage during the hours of darkness.

BOXER HIT THE REFEREE

in New Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, May 14.—Even the referee had to fight at the New Bedford Athletic club meet last night. Joe Chick of Fall River, enraged at his failure to get a draw in his fight with Young Jasper of Boston, rushed at Referee Hugh Devlin and punched him with both hands. Devlin returned the blow and then a policeman jumped into the ring and signified Chick into his corner.

The main bout between Harry Lenny of Baltimore and Kid McDonald of Rosindale resulted in a victory for Lenny, who outpointed his man nearly the whole distance, though McDonald, who fought a rough hard fight, finished the 12 rounds in fairly good shape. Chick made a good showing against Jasper, the decision for the latter being strictly on points.

There were two preliminaries. In the first one, Young Ward of Fall River bested Kid Burns of this city in one round. He then went up against Young Dias of this city for a six-round exhibition. Dias was knocked down six times in the first round, but came back strong and had Ward groggy in the sixth. Dias got the decision.

RAMSEY'S BOUT
PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—In one of the slowest bouts at the American A. C. this season Harry Ramsey of this city won by a slight margin over Bill McKinnon of Boston last night, the bout going the six rounds.

It was nothing but clinch during the major part of the fight, though Ramsey tried hard to start something. Every time he attempted to lead, however, McKinnon would clinch.

The Bostonian started off in good shape, using a left jab, which landed frequently on the local fighter's face. After the beginning of the second round Ramsey scored heavily with body punches. McKinnon retaliated with a straight left every time they broke from a clinch.

It appeared that neither cared to take a chance of mixing it up.

LANGFORD WHIPS BARRY
MELBOURNE, Australia, May 14.—Sam Langford the heavy-weight colored boxer of Boston last night defeated Jim Barry the Chicago heavy-weight. Barry was completely outclassed and the referee stopped the fight in the 11th round.

Bradley of the Boston Americans
One of Season's Big Surprises

Bradley, the Boston Red Sox young infielder, is helping make American league baseball history this season. The youngster started the campaign at third base and played brilliantly. Then Manager Jake Stahl was laid up, and the youngster was shifted to first. Right from the start he played a grand game—in fact, Stahl, who has now recovered, says he intends to remain on the bench and let Bradley continue to play the base. And Stahl, by the way, is one of the best first sackers in the American league. It is unusual to see a manager who is a star himself giving up a position to a youngster, but the Red Sox leader says Bradley in his present form is a better man on the sack than himself.

SAYS TY COBB BORROWS CREDIT

Joe Birmingham of the Cleveland nine declares that if Ty Cobb had had any other man than Sam Crawford following him in the batting order his base stealing record would not be so great. "I haven't made such a statement without considering the matter," said Birmingham.

"Put Sam Crawford up behind any one of a half dozen players in this league and their base stealing records would increase immensely. Conditions will support my argument. In the first place, every catcher is handicapped almost five feet in throwing to second when Sam is up. You know, Sam lays way back of that home plate.

"A catcher would take his life in his hands if he dared to get in the customary position behind the plate, for Sam takes an awful wallop. Five feet doesn't seem like a great distance, but when it is taken into consideration that a vast number of base stealers are checked by the merest margin of seconds five feet looms up as considerable distance.

"Sam Crawford wields a young telegraph pole. There are few players in baseball who could handle such a club. And Sam spreads that club all over an immense amount of air. It's usually in the way or thereabouts. At least it's a factor with which the catcher must always reckon. Finally, Sam is a left handed batter. Any time a pitcher hurls a pitch out to catch Cobb stealing the catcher is thrown into an awkward position. He can't possibly be set for a throw. There another portion of a second is lost."

JASPER AND EAGAN
IN THE MAIN BOUTAt Meeting of the Lowell
S. and A. Club

The program for this week's meeting of the Lowell Social and Athletic club is a very good one. The main bout will be furnished by Young Jasper of Boston and Kid Eagan of Woburn. These are two great rivals. Billy Nixon was to meet Jasper, but as he is on the sick list, Matchmaker Gardner has signed Eagan to take his place. Eagan is a very clever boy. He met Jasper before and got the decision after one of the best bouts ever seen in Boston. He also defeated Young Clancy who appeared at the club two weeks ago and was defeated by Eddy Flynn. Eagan was signed up yesterday and he expects to be in good condition for the meeting. Young Jasper is well known in Lowell. He has appeared here on several occasions and has always given satisfaction. He is a great fighter and is in training for the mill. He will try his best to defeat Eagan, as this will be the first time he has had a chance to get back for the debt he recovered from last Eagan a short time ago. The semi-final should prove one of the best ever staged. This will introduce to the members Paddy De Luca, one of the fast Boston boys, and Charlie Anastas, the local Greek champion. De Luca has a long list of victories to his credit and is one of the fastest boys in this vicinity at his weight. Anastas, whose ability is well known to the members of the club, feels confident that he will put the fast Boston boy to the sheets. It is scheduled to go eight rounds. The first preliminary will show Young Josephs and Young Kelscher, both of this city. The latter is coming along at a fast clip. Last week he appeared at the club and won in the second round by the K. O. route. Josephs is also going fast and their offering ought to be good. The other prelim. will be announced later. The meeting will be held in Mathew hall on Thursday evening.

ANOTHER WET DAY
STOPS LOWELL GAMEThree Teams Are Still Tied for First Honors

Rain again put the Lowell team back. The players went to Brockton yesterday, with the intention of defeating that clever bunch of tossers, but the weather was very disagreeable and the game was called off. As the Lawrence-Worcester game resulted in a tie there was no change in the standing. With all the teams playing today a leader will be determined. Lowell, Lawrence and Brockton are tied for first honors, with 5 games won and five lost. Lowell plays Brockton today and Lawrence and Worcester are again scheduled to meet. The results are being closely watched by the followers of the game. If Lowell wins and Lawrence is defeated by Jesse Burket's Busters, then Lowell will be the leader. Any other result and there will be a shakeup. The Lowell fans are pulling hard for the home team. Lowell will play at home tomorrow with New Bedford as opponents.

DIAMOND NOTES

Dob Ganley has caught on with Atlanta, Ga.

Keating, the star pitcher on the Lawrence roster, is only 19 years old.

If the Haverhill club only had the pitchers (signs the Haverhill Gazette), it would be on Easy street.

Brockton expects to have Tommy Catterton out of the hospital and back in the lineup soon.

Steve O'Neil, grabbed by Cleveland from Worcester last season, is laid up with a finger broken in three places.

The veteran Lave Cross says it will take two weeks of good warm weather to get the links out of the pitchers' arms.

Walsh, who is now playing centre field for Fall River, was given a try-out by Billy Hamilton when at Lynn two years ago.

Danzig, the former Lowell first baseman, is playing regularly with the Montgomery team of the Southern league.

It is reported around the circuit that Haverhill is to let Eddie McGamwell to end take on as a first baseman Wright, who has been supplanted by Miller on the Lowell team—Exchange.

The big scores in the New England league cannot be blamed on the rubber centred ball this season, for the league adopted the cork centred ball last spring—Haverhill Gazette.

"We have lost several games because of poor work on the bases," says Manager Cunningham of New Bedford. "Several bonhead plays have been responsible for the club's downfall, but these will not occur. We are waiting for the weather to clear, and then we'll be up there fighting."

Cunningham got after his squad the other day, when rain made a game impossible, and gave them a drastic lecture. He threatened a general shakeup and told the players they would have to show a fighting spirit. "Anyone who can't stand the pace will be dropped," he declared.

Paddy Bauman, who is playing third base for the Detroit Tigers, remarked while on a flying visit to New Bedford the other day, that he would about as soon play in the New England league if the pay envelope were bigger. Being in the big league is pretty much the same as being in the little old New England, says Paddy, only that the pitchers have better control and a player has to be on his toes every minute.

Pitcher Noel Will Never Pass Up Batter Purposely

PITCHER NOEL OF PITTSBURGH.

Bruce Noel, the promising young pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, is of the opinion that it is unwise to deliberately pass up a batsman. He declares that he has never done it in his pitching career.

"Not if it's the best cluster living," said Noel recently. "No deliberate walk from me. If the catcher signals to pass a man I believe it is better policy, if you are going to give him a base anyhow to soak him in some fatty part of his anatomy, where the blow will not cripple him, but will give the pitcher some compensation for allowing the player a base he has not earned. But, generally speaking, if I can't make a batsman whiff, my policy is to let him hit it out. Consider how many games are lost by bases on balls, and I think most fans are inclined to agree with me that my theory is at least worthy of consideration."

CARPENTIER, FRENCH MIDDLEWEIGHT

Writers on boxing in England, America and France, especially in America, have gone into ecstasies over the performances of Georges Carpentier, French middleweight champion, and the prediction has been freely made, especially by enthusiasts in the United States who have never seen the Frenchman, that he will soon develop into the heavyweight champion of the world.

Carpentier is only eighteen years old and is growing rapidly. In view of the effusive laudation of the American experts it was a bit ungracious of the Frenchman to furnish a true line on his real ability. Carpentier recently got into the ring with George Gunther, a good middleweight (trial horse of the United States, and the best the sensational Frenchman could do was to win on points in twenty rounds.

There is hardly a middleweight of class in America who cannot dispose of Gunther inside of twenty rounds, and yet the far famed French champion got the decision on points by a narrow margin.

It is therefore evident that the Queensberry tuff hunters of America will do well to sing low as to Carpentier until he has decisively defeated a middleweight of unquestioned class.

Annes are to have a home game with the Elliotts.

The men who are to serve as officers are Duncan Kelley, president, James A. Grant vice president, George H. Morse treasurer, and Harry Button secretary.

A committee consisting of Royal Paterson, Herbert Ellis, and Mr. Wicks, of the Y. M. C. A. were appointed to bring in a constitution, and also rules at the meeting next Monday evening.

The purpose of the league shall be to promote the mutual acquaintance among the Sunday schools of the various churches, and to establish a high standard of courtesy, manliness and honesty in athletic sports.

The arrangement for the Twilight league will be made later.

The Midland Stars forfeited the game which was to have been played with the Highland Juniors May 11. The Highland Juniors would like to challenge any 14-year-old team. Send all challenges through this paper, or to Arthur Killpatrick, 161 So. Loring street.

The Young Sycamores would like to challenge any team in this city at the age of 10 or 11 years. Our team is in the condition and would like to play Thursday afternoon. Our lineup is as follows: J. Hamilton, c; L. Allen, rf; W. Killern, 1b; J. Roddy, 2b; J. Bridge, 3b; F. Jarrett, ss; J. Matchmaker, cf; W. Bracerill, lf and J. Quinn, lf. Send all challenges to L. Allen, 61 Concord street or through this paper.

The Young Men of St. Anne's won from the High Street "Concordians" team Saturday, 11 to 10.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

THE LOCAL AUTO BUSINESS IS BRISK

Dealers Are Kept Busy Demonstrating and a Number of Sales Are Reported—News From the Different Garages

At this season of the year when motorists begin to catch the spring fever of touring, thoughts mechanically turn toward the perfection of good roads building.

Judging by the numerous appropriations for good roads which are being considered by the state legislatures throughout the country it would seem that 1912 will go down in history as a record breaker in the advancement of improved highways. New York state with an impending appropriation of fifty million dollars appears to head the list.

The whole country is stirred as never before relative to the great question of highway improvement. If there is anything in the world that a good citizen who loves his state and has civic or state pride delights in it is to have the city and state reputation maintained.

Never in the history of this country has the finger pointed so strongly to the attitude of the states towards this question. A commonwealth's reputation for enterprise, progress and all that goes to make it worth living in is determined to a great extent by the character of its roads—the great arteries through which flow the business and pleasure life of a state.

Whenever a farmer loads his wagon, he has in mind the worst part of the road over which it has to go, whether that be one or five or six hundred feet long, or has a hundred feet or hundred miles of good road at each end. He knows that its worst hill or mud hole limits the size of the load he can move. Because this is so the maximum efficiency of a stretch of highway does not exceed the maximum load that a man can haul over the poorest spot in it.

The automobile has been the greatest factor in securing better highways but the motorist is not the only benefactor. The farmer has probably received more direct benefit than any one class. Good roads appeal to all, whether he be a pedestrian, a bicyclist, a horseman or a motor car tourist. Good roads are a boon to mankind and have probably done more than any one thing to raise farm values. Good roads are an important factor in advancing a community and regardless of its size or manufacturing magnitude, a town's progression is often judged by the condition of its thoroughfares and outlying highways.

It seems to me that the materials of automobile clubs and associations could do a better work for its members than to wage a campaign for better roads for the next few months, even if other club work has to be neglected.

Rain Interferes With Business

The inclement weather during the past week greatly interfered with the sale of automobiles for many reasons. It is anything but encouraging weather throughout the city people who anticipated buying cars made appointments to be given demonstrations but when the time for the demonstration arrived the weather was such that they postponed the demonstration until a future date.

Despite the fact that the number of sales of cars has been comparatively small there is plenty of repair work being done and scores of cars are being overhauled and painted at the repair and paint shops. With plenty of sunshine and good weather there will be a general rush for new cars.

At the Garages

The Oakland Sociable roadster, which is a novelty in this city this year, causing three persons side by side, has become very popular and there are several of these models traversing the local streets, and there are a number of orders for such models which have not yet been filled. The management of the Moody Bridge garage expects to have another carload of this model during the present week.

James Ranger, the popular manager of the Moody Bridge garage, is one of the busiest men in Lowell at the present time, having been kept busy night and day for the past few weeks.

The Lowell Motor Mart in Merrimack street, corner of Tilden, has been cleaned out of Ford cars, the demand for this popular car having been so great that at the present time he has not one car in his show room, but within a day or two there will be plenty, for there are 12 cars on their way from the factory.

A large electric sign has been placed on the Lowell Motor Mart and when illuminated can be seen for a long distance.

Contractor Charles P. Conant is erecting a modern garage in the rear of his residence at the corner of Beacon and Eleventh streets. It is expected that the structure will be completed within about a week.

The number of sales of the various models of the Buick this year has been remarkable and although the rainy weather of the past week caused a depression in the sales department, prompt deliveries are being made and scores of new Buicks are traversing the streets. Many people who have owned Buicks for years have turned in their old cars for new ones while in other instances owners of various other cars have traded in their cars for 1912 Buicks.

If you're an autoist you should know the value of cotter pins, but if it happens that you do not, call and see Harry Pitts at his establishment in Third street and he will explain the use which the cotter pins are put to. Harry made a "head" in a consignment of cotter pins last week and the autoists of this city are to reap the benefit, for he is offering the best make precipitable at a very low price. For the accommodation of his customers who find it inconvenient to get to his place during business hours Harry has decided to keep his establishment open evenings hereafter until further notice.

Do you think it is possible to carry a touring car through mountainous regions and low lands for a distance of 1400 miles, weighted with hundreds of pounds of baggage?

Whether you do, or not, is not material, but this is identically what the chassis of a Reo truck which George F. White, the local distributing agent, received from the factory last Friday did. The tour which the truck entered and went through successfully was the "Golden" which was held last year from New York to Florida. The committee having in charge the tour after completing arrangements for the same, wondered how it would arrange to have the baggage of the entrants transported from place to place each day. Owing to the strict regulations governing the contest no wearing apparel or tools except those that the driver or companion actually required, were allowed in the car.

The problem appeared to be one which was very hard to meet, because the sending of baggage by train would prove more or less inconvenient through delays or distances which would have to be traversed to bring the baggage to the hotel, which in many cases was far removed from a railroad. As a final effort to overcome this apparently insurmountable problem, the governing board caused an invitation to the truck builders of the country, asking them to offer their trucks. The Reo company was the only one to respond and the Reo was the truck which completed the test with a record comparing with that of the highest priced car in the run.

The Reo trucks will be quite numerous on the streets of this city, this year, as to orders have been received by Mr. White.

This week was just as successful as far as sales went as any since Mr. White took the agency. Two touring models were sold, one to a party who wished to have his name with the other to Charles E. Jamison of Grand street.

THE MOTOR TRUCK OF GREAT VALUE

To the Merchants and Manufacturers

That merchants and manufacturers in all lines are alive to the value of the motor truck is evident to all who get a broad view of the situation all over the world. The progressive business man of today avails himself of every modern device for doing things economically, which at the same time is always a saver of time and labor. Past-century methods, in this age of progression, are an impediment.

If merchants in all lines would make a practice of keeping itemized accounts of the cost of their delivery system they would become easier converts to the use of motor trucks. All must concede that stable equipment must be maintained, whether business is active or dull, and the horse out of use is just as expensive as the horse that is giving full service. Compare this with the economy of the motor vehicle which needs neither fuel nor oil except when in service and which requires but little stable room and attention when not in use. This is the most forcible, and will, in all probability, be the decisive feature in inducing merchants to abandon past-century methods in favor of power-wagon transportation.

The amount of saving, of course, varies with individual business requirements, but speaking in general terms, it may be said that a power wagon team in constant service will cost delivery cost from 25 per cent upward. The cost of transportation can be determined just as logically as the cost of operating any other machine. It is merely a question of measuring the work required and measuring the cost, and placing one against the other. In other words, you pay only for measured service.

Delivery in large cities is becoming more and more difficult, owing to the enormous territory to be covered, especially where a large and irregular trade is to be established and maintained. The range of delivery service has gradually become extended until the horse is incapable of covering the necessary distances during the day, and when used is practically unfit for service the following day, whereas extended routes are attempted. With motor trucks these long routes are easily covered with dispatch, making possible earlier delivery of goods in districts which previously did not receive deliveries until the following day.

The increased efficiency of this device means increased satisfaction among the merchant's patrons. It is a strong feature in attracting a greater volume of trade to his store. Quick deliveries are always appreciated and the trade will inevitably drift to the store which can guarantee such service.

TWENTY-SEVEN SPEEDY RACING CARS

Entered in Annual 500 Mile International Sweepstakes to be Held at Indianapolis on Memorial Day

Carrying with it more than $50,000 in cash prizes for the winners, the second annual 500-mile international Sweepstakes race will be started at ten o'clock the morning of Memorial day, May 30, with twenty-seven speedy racing cars as contenders for the victory. This number entered the race before the closing of the entries at midnight May 1. Manned by the cars are almost all of the famous racing pilots in America, and several who have international reputations for prowess at the wheel. Taken throughout the field of starters in this long grind is the classiest that ever has been brought together in one contest.

Last year there were more entries, but only the fastest cars have been entered for the second race, and the terrific speed and endurance demands in the grueling fray were too great for many to tackle again. With about one exception all of the cars this time were among the fastest in the first 500-mile race, which furnished the most spectacular contest ever witnessed in motor racing annals. It is believed that the average speed will be as high as seventy-nine miles per hour. The last race brought out an average of 74.61 miles for the five-century distance.

Almost without exception the pilots who are practicing for the big race believe that the new record will equal that established for 300 miles on the road at Santa Monica. Some have ventured the opinion that eighty miles per hour will be necessary for the winning car. Last year the drivers were correct in their estimate of speed, most of them saying the seventy-four or seventy-five miles per hour would be the result.

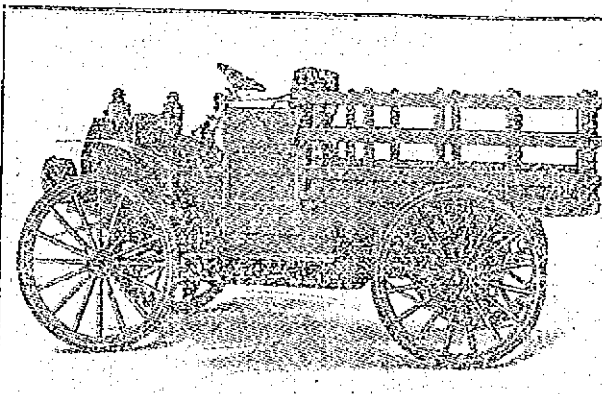

Despite the fact that the eliminating speed was set at seventy-five miles per hour for one full lap of the track most of the motors which have been specially built for the race carry from 100 to 120 miles per hour beneath their bonnets. This great speed capacity is provided because the requirements of the race may make it necessary to have it at times and sufficient power must be held in reserve so that the motors will not be strained in maintaining an average of about eighty miles.

Six of the world's greatest drivers will be listed in the field which will start in the race.

Those shown above are Win Barnardollar who will drive the White-Six entry, a car which is an off-spring of the famous old steam cars which used to set the world's speed records on the Florida beaches; Bob Burman, the greatest of them all, the world's speed king, who has a cutting to pilot through the five-century grind; Len Zengel, winner of the Elgin National Zengel, winner of the race from Stock Chassis road race in 1911, who will drive a Stutz car; Ralph Mulford, one of the greatest winners of the 1911 season, who clinaxed his career by winning the Vanderbilt Cup race, and has purchased a six-cylinder Knox for this great event; Harry Knight, who created the greatest thrill in last year's race in an accident before the grand stand, when to save the life of a mechanic who had fallen on the track, he steered his car into the cement wall, and Charles Merz, who is the third member of the Stutz racing team. Merz formerly belonged to the National crew of racing drivers and won many notable victories with those cars.

Harvey Herriek, world's road champion, will appear behind the wheel of a Case racing car; Gil Anderson, who successfully carried through a Stutz car in the last 500-mile race, has the same kind of a mount. Howard Wil-

A motor-driven vehicle will do a certain amount of hauling in less time and at less cost than horse and wagon equipment. That's conceded. Therefore, the delivery questions that confront the business man of today are: "Which motor truck is best adapted to my use, will give the best service, can be operated with the least expense, and is the best value for the money?" The degree of success of the motor wagon proposition depends to a great extent upon how well the purchaser answers these questions for himself before purchasing.

The International auto wagon was one of the first commercial cars on the market, and from its inception there has been a constant growth in the volume of sales. This is itself a convincing proof that it has given satisfaction—that it has proved a profitable investment for the business man.

Sash a Feature of Summer Costumes—
Dotted Swiss Again Enters the Arena.

THE aristocratic lingerie frock is a rag-like wisp of a thing—off its wearer. It seems not to have form or substance and one marvels how a handful of lace and silksy fabric, the whole soft enough to be drawn through a bracelet, can ever by a stretch of the dressmaker's imagination be made to represent the fearsome price asked. But let the wisp of a frock be thrown over the head, shaken down and hooked into place; let the dressmaker give a deft touch here and a gentle tug at a lace flounce there—and behold the wonder becomes, how such a dream of feminine daintiness and elegance could ever have been devised for the absurdly trifling amount mentioned in the bill.

All frocks of this type are built in one piece now; that is, bodice and skirt are attached at the waistline. Whether the graceful sash is included in the costume, or a simple belt of lace insertion defines the waist. Seams are skillfully disguised under tucks or by means of seam heading or lace entre-deux, and the fairy fine fabric with its intricate bandings, motifs and honeycombs of lace and embroidery is by some miraculous manner made to take the graceful, clinging lines of a modish frock. There is, indeed, a deal of skill in the building of an elaborate lingerie costume, and considering the fineness of the fabrics used and the honeycombing with lace, it is remarkable how long such frocks last—an expensive hand-made lingerie costume usually giving good service through two or three seasons.

The Slip Beneath the Frock an Important Item.

The lingerie frock has nothing to hold it trimly in position except its beautiful cut and fashioning. It may not be lined or boned—or even stayed with stouter fabric where the strain comes—and it is important to have, under its filmy prettiness, a foundation or slip of material strong enough to hold the figure in sharply lines, yet of a character that shall not look clumsy beneath the airy frock. Satin is sometimes used for these slips, but unless the satin be of the softest and thinnest character it will be a bit too stiff and give the frock too formal a suggestion. Very thin wash silk is better, and batiste may be used if the figure is slender and does not need a smoothly fitting garment. Very satisfactory slips have been made of ordinary silkoline, bought at the upholstery counter. This material comes in a very pretty pink shade and a good, pale yellow; but in the blue shade it is a bit too deep. The palest colors must be selected for use with the lingerie frock, for bright, strong, pinks or blues will at once cheapen it and make it look common and ordinary. Be sure that the foundation slip is a bit narrower than the frock in the skirt, and finish the slip with a scant flounce edged with lace.

Dotted Swiss is Girlish and Simple In Suggestion.

New dotted swisses and batistes are wonderfully soft and fine in character, and there are dotted voiles and crepes which come with beautiful border patterns. In making up a bordered crepe or voile, the border design is usually cut away from the plain material and afterward joined to it as a trimming, by means of lace insertion or narrow entre-deux. One of the prettiest frocks on today's page has been built in this way—the dainty costume having a fillet lace overskirt and back panel, and a girlish sash with long ends. This charming frock is made of very fine dotted batiste in a creamy shade and the embroidered border has been cut away and used very cleverly as a trimming. The entire border is left at the foot of the skirt. Another band of the border edges the lace tunic or overskirt, which opens in front and is edged with a narrow section of the border. The center part of the border is used for the cuffs and the narrow edge pattern is used on each side of the hand of fillet insertion around the skirt. The width of the border is used again across the back of the lace collar; the bodice and sleeves being made of the fillet lace, set together with entre-deux like the overskirt.

This fetching little frock is further enhanced with a girlish sash, having two ends falling straight down from a flat pump bow at the back of the waistline. The sash is made of changeable lilac and blue ribbon and the creamy frock is mounted over pale blue messaline. The leghorn hat is trimmed with purple lilacs. The boots are of white buckskin with high Cuban heels and buttoned tops.

Chiffon Touches on Tub Costumes.

At least a third of the so-called "lingerie" models this season have chiffon in their make-up—a fact which precludes their ever visiting the friendly washtub. When chiffon is left out, dark net is sometimes introduced to give the cachet of a dark touch on the delicately airy frock. Black net yokes and trills are often seen on otherwise white costumes; and some very aristocratic lingerie frocks are touched up with gray net. A model of this sort, of embroidered white cotton crepe, has tiny pleated frills of smoke gray net, introduced along the edge of wide fillet lace bandings on skirt and bodice, and down the center front are two rows of very small gray buttons which are made of the net over white silk.

Cerise and green chiffon are used by Poiret this season to give color to cream frocks—for everything of a lingerie nature that Poiret turns out now is cream rather than pure white. A very smart costume of the lingerie type, shown in the house of Poiret recently, was of dotted cotton crepe trimmed lavishly with Bavarian lace. A lace edged tunic fell over a narrow skirt of green chiffon and there was an odd pleated frill of the chiffon hanging from the neck—a frill tapering to nothing at the front and pointing down to the waistline at the back. The sash was of green and gold, shot taffeta and the fanciful buttoned boots were of white kid with green leather trimmings. The mannish costume wore a green straw hat with one long green ostrich plume, and cream silk gloves with flower bracelets embroidered in green on the wrist.

Shot Taffeta Sashes the Fad.

Only babies wear pink and blue sashes now, and such frankly innocent shades have no claim to modishness. Subtle and mysterious blues, pinks, lavenders and corn colors, produced by weavings changeant are the fashion, and some of these changeable taffeta ribbons are atrociously expensive—because they are the craze.

There are dozens of ways to tie the sash this season—one might almost say scores of ways—and each seems more charming than the last. There is the simple, jeune fille style illustrated with the dotted swiss frock referred to above; one end of the sash falling over the other and both ends emanating from a demure, flat bow at the waistline. Then there is the pannier sash, caught against the skirt at the knees so that the upper part bags out a bit. Sometimes the broad sash ribbons are set straight along the edge of the waist ribbon, and spread out flat over the back of the skirt until they reach the knees; then they are drawn together and held under a little wreath of rosebuds, a knot or a bow. Again, the sash may be made of taffeta by the yard, or of satin, and have a narrow pleating of lace or the material set all around the edge, the ends being cut tab-shape. Black velvet sashes are coming more and more into favor as the season advances and there is something decidedly taking about the touch of dead black velvet on a dainty frock. The white frock with pannier overskirt, illustrated on the figure standing in a window, has a sash of shot pink taffeta in a lovely watermelon shade and the shirred white net hat is trimmed with pink rosebuds. This frock is particularly girlish and the pannier is very moderately hinted at, the short tunic being eased into a flat edge trimming to produce a slightly bouffant effect at back and sides. This frock is made of white cotton crepe embroidered by hand, and the trimming of Cluny lace is arranged to throw the handsome embroidery into relief. The yoke and puffed undersleeves are of white net.

Some of the net frocks are accompanied by gay little taffeta wraps or caps which add a dainty color touch when accompanied by a hat in similar color. The Paris couturier is particularly about what sort of hat is to accompany his or her carefully thought-out creation; and many of the frocks and gowns are sold with accompanying headgear. The two hats illustrated separately came home with French frocks ordered by a June bride-to-be. The smaller hat accompanied a batiste frock with a smart embroidery and fillet lace collar and a sash of wide black velvet ribbon. This hat of flexible panama has a crown of draped Pompadour silk circled with a black velvet band and bow. A frill of cream lace at the edge of the brim is headed by a wreath of violets, sewed on in a single row set close together. Black satin boots with crystal buttons and a black parasol repeat the black note of the velvet sash worn with this costume.

Another Paris frock is far more simple, and is intended for morning wear at the chateau—or country home. This frock is of embroidered cream swiss in striped pattern and has trimmings of Irish lace. A pleated ruffle of white net, edged with Val, gives grace to the narrow, straight skirt, and similar trills trim the sleeves.

White wash cushions are delightful on a shady porch and make an agreeable change from the elaborately embroidered and lace trimmed covers used at other times.

The porch pillow should be covered with utility and not daintiness or luxury in mind. Cretonne in dark colorings, simple stenciled effects, washable crash and canvas and cotton bandanna kerchiefs make good porch pillow covers. The colors may be brighter than one would select for indoor pillows for summer time, though too much red should be avoided. A few orange, yellow and blue cushions on a shady veranda furnished in greens and color and red and white striped cushions are delightful on a shady veranda with brown shadows.

Stenciled pillow covers are always in good taste in living rooms and for the couch in the den. Very attractive stenciled patterns may be obtained, ready to make up into pillow covers, but the best effects are obtained by doing one's own stenciling. Something About Summer Pillows

WITH the passing of the abundant "cozy corner," smothered in dusty draperies and piled mountain high with a mass of cushions in every color of the rainbow, the pillow has become no less a factor in interior decoration, but a far more dignified and distinctive factor. The well chosen pillow fills a place of its own now, and has its special value in the general scheme of decoration. The artistic value of one's couch decoration is the thing—and not merely as many pillows as one may pile on—each pillow in a different style and hue; and one presents sofa pillows now only to the college boy or girl, whose chief ideal of room decoration is bright color, variety and an accumulation of securities, for the modern housewife is particular about what sort of decorations she uses, and if her couch pillows do not harmonize with her draperies and wall paper, out they go. Those ancient horrors, the Indian Chief pillow, the Pocahontas pillow, the crazy-quilt pillow and other monstrosities are seen no more except in the parlors of the summer hotel, and the modern pillow fits into the decoration of the home as an autumn leaf fits into a mountain side of foliage.

There are various classes of pillows—the stately, rather stiff pillows for the formal drawing-room; the comfortable pillows for the living room couch; the pretty, boudoir pillows in washable covers and the happy-go-lucky porch pillow which may be tossed about and left out perhaps overnight without material injury. The wise housewife removes the winter pillow covers in the spring and substitutes cool, slippery covers of linen, cretonne or silk which match a couch or sofa cover of similar material. The winter covers should be removed and not merely covered with the summer slip, and before being put away they should be thoroughly brushed, shaken and hung out to the fresh air so that the spring wind may blow away all dust of busyness. The cotton materials, like tape, burials, mercerized cottons and denims are apt to become musty and stale, especially in rooms where tobacco smoke lingers, and unless they are brushed and hung out occasionally, they give a clear odor to the room.

The English drawing room is a thing of joy in summer. No husband shrined furniture—that is used only when the family is away and the house is in a caretaker's hands—no pictures swathed in fly-net, no bare and staring windows. The heavy winter draperies—which in England are really necessary to keep out draughts—are taken down to be sure, but in their place summery curtains float about in the open windows; bright, fresh cretonne covers are drawn over chairs and sofas and flowers are everywhere. The charming window seat illustrated is part of an English interior and shows the light, dainty, yet dignified summer decoration favored over there. The windows are hung with simple lace bordered net curtains and the lamprequin arrangement across the top gives a certain formality and dignity appropriate to the drawing room. This lamprequin, the side curtains and the cushion and drapery of the window seat are made of French cretonne and the pillows match in coloring.

One of the pillows is illustrated in detail and the illustration shows how three shades of linen have been combined with simple hand embroidery. The background of the pillow is pale green linen and the large, conventional poppy is made of white linen and darker green linen, the material being couched to the ground fabric with heavy embroidery floss. The embroidered designs in the corners are done in greens with touches of old pink.

Stenciled pillow covers are always in good taste in living rooms and for the couch in the den. Very attractive stenciled patterns may be obtained, ready to make up into pillow covers, but the best effects are obtained by doing one's own stenciling. This work is also very easy to do and after the knack has been acquired a whole room may be delightfully decorated with stenciled draperies, pillows and covers.

The heavy gray Russian crash makes particularly cool and agreeable couch pillows for summer days. Blacks, triangles and discs in bright colored embroidery, or in subdued two-tone effects decorate the gray crash pleasingly. All pillow covers for summer use should be provided with buttons and buttonholes, or with snap fasteners at one edge, so that the cover may be removed and freshened ever so often. A couch with clean fresh pillows is an especially inviting spot on a hot afternoon, but only when clean and immaculately fresh is the summer couch attractive.

After all, no pillow covers are as graceful and cool, in summer time, as those of thin, washable silk. Oriental and yellow cushions tossed about on a silks in subdued green shades make pleasant covers for the living room pillows, but all shades of brown and red should be avoided. White wash cushions are delightful on a shady porch and make an agreeable change from the elaborately embroidered and lace trimmed covers used at other times.

The porch pillow should be covered with utility and not daintiness or luxury in mind. Cretonne in dark colorings, simple stenciled effects, washable crash and canvas and cotton bandanna kerchiefs make good porch pillow covers. The colors may be brighter than one would select for indoor pillows for summer time, though too much red should be avoided. A few orange, yellow and blue cushions on a shady veranda furnished in greens and color and red and white striped cushions are delightful on a shady veranda with brown shadows.

STRIKERS GUILTY
SAYS THE COURTThey Were Charged With Obstructing the Street While on Picket DutySeveral Assault and Battery Cases Were Heard
Today—Disposition of One of Them
Postponed Until Thursday

A large number of cases were tried before Judge Pickman at the session of the police court this morning, and among them were two of the strikers at the Merrimack mill who were found guilty of violating the city ordinance by obstructing the sidewalk and disturbing the peace by shouting.

The men arraigned were Peter Anastopoulos who was charged with obstructing Merrimack street and Theodore Apostopoulos who was arrested for obstructing the sidewalk. The two men were in the picket line this morning in the vicinity of the Merrimack mill. Peter it is claimed was standing on the sidewalk and when he was ordered to move along, he declined to do so and the result was that he was sent to the station for obstructing the sidewalk. He entered a plea of guilty and a fine of $3 was imposed.

Theodore, it is claimed, kept parading in the street and shouting, despite the fact that he had been told to shut up several times. Finally he was placed under arrest for disturbing the peace and when his case was called he entered a plea of guilty and was fined $5.

Assault and Battery
Joseph A. Plau, who was charged with assault and battery on Frederick A. Taylor, the gravel roofer, admitted his guilt and a fine of $20 was imposed. The testimony in this case was to the effect that the complainant was doing work in Cabot street yesterday when the defendant came along and without any reason grabbed him by the coat and pulled him out of his wagon. The defendant claimed he did it because he had a grudge against Taylor, for as he said he owed him 15 cents in back wages.

50 CENTRAL STREET

HOT SHOT FROM ALD. BARRETT
WOULD REMOVE CITY TREASURERHe Attacks Assessors' Department—Says It and Treasurer's Department Are Responsible For Financial Difficulties

At a meeting of the municipal council held this afternoon, Commissioner Donnelly absent, Commissioner Barrett said it was his intention had the full board been present to offer a motion for the removal of Andrew E. Stiles, city treasurer and collector of taxes. Mr. Barrett also stated that in his estimation an election of a few days ago by the municipal council was more an election than it was an election.

The meeting was about to adjourn when Mr. Barrett arose and said he wanted to speak to a question of privilege. He had in his hand an editorial from a morning paper in which the council was criticized for removing Principal Assessor Abbott from office.

Mr. Barrett said that the writer of the editorial should have acquainted himself with the facts before criticizing the action of the men who voted to displace Mr. Abbott. He said that personally he had nothing against Mr. Abbott but that he believed a change in the assessors' department was absolutely necessary.

"I believe," he said, "that the condition of the city's finances at the present time is due to the slipshod methods employed in the treasurer's office and the office of the assessors of taxes and unless a change is made, and a very radical one too, in the methods employed in the office of the assessors of taxes I will vote to have all of the assessors removed."

Wants Treasurer Removed
"I considered it my duty to insist upon a change in the assessors' office. We know that the city is in bad shape financially and I have said so many times and the board of assessors cannot be absolved from blame in the matter. We heard about the $222,000 overpayment to cover abatement of taxes. The assessors abated $26,000 but there is no correspondence in the treasurer's office relative to the matter and one of the most severe criticisms made by the expert accountants had to do with the assessors' office. The system in that office is wrong. The expert accountants say so and he is a man of experience and knows what he is talking about. I know that property in some parts of the city is undertaxed and in other parts of the city property is overtaxed. There is no use to beat about the bush in this matter. There has been negligence on the part of the board of assessors and the city treasurer and collector of taxes and it was my intention to make a motion this afternoon for the election of a successor to Andrew G. Stiles, but the full board is not present and I will wait until this evening when I will have more to say about other things. I would ask, however, that the members who voted for a change in the assessors' office would acquaint themselves with the facts.

"I want to say, too, that when the Boston finance committee made up its report, Lowell was the only city to be criticized in that report."

Perpetual Care Funds
Commissioner Cummings spoke relative to perpetual care accounts in public burial grounds. "You know," Mr. Mayor, he said, "that as a general thing people do not read the papers as carefully as they should and for that reason wrong impressions are gleaned. Since it appeared in the public press that certain funds, supposed to have been kept intact, had been spent, many questions have been asked relative to the status of perpetual care funds or accounts and I want to say for the benefit of the people who have asked the questions and for the benefit of all others interested, that the funds are all right. I have visited the treasurer's office and have examined the bank books there in which the accounts are kept. I found that the money is in the local savings banks and I want to assure the people that the perpetual care accounts are all right."

Hearings On Petitions
When Mayor O'Donnell called the meeting to order at 2:30 o'clock, all members were present except Commissioner Donnelly who was in Boston on business for the city. The mayor said that a motion to adjourn to three o'clock or to two o'clock this evening would be in order, but being apprised of the fact that there were persons present interested in petitions for which hearings had been scheduled, he read the petitions.

The first was the petition of Charles P. Conant by Fred E. Melloy to store gasoline in the ground in the rear of

THE GRAND TRUNK
BILL IS FAVOREDBy a Sub-Committee of the Com-

the LegislatureAccording to Plans the Route Will Be Through Tyngsboro, Chelmsford, Lowell, Bil-
lerica and Tewksbury

BOSTON, May 14.—A sub-committee of the legislative committee on railroads reported to the full committee today a bill permitting the Southern New England railroad to extend its lines to Boston. The extension proposed by the Grand Trunk officials comes in three directions from the southwest from the authorized line from Palmer to Providence, from the northwest from Bellows Falls, Vt., and also from Buckstone, Mass. The bill was advocated before the committee on railroads by a number of business organizations in the state and by President Fitzhugh of the Southern New England road, while the principal opposition came from the representatives of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad.

In Middlesex county the road will run through the towns of Tyngsboro, Chelmsford, Tewksbury, Billerica, Bedford, Lexington, Arlington and Belmont and the cities of Lowell, Medford, Cambridge, Everett, Chelsea and Boston.

made a rush for the officers and their prisoners, but they were quickly subdued and the prisoners removed to the station in the limousine.

Those arrested gave the following names: Joseph Schmidt, one of the leaders; Thanastakis Katsigianis, Felix Nours, Louis Rappas, Athos Rihan, Christos Balasos, Louis Courchus, Geo. Delamais, Dimitrios Sunopoulis, Manuel G. Souza and Louis Pappas. At 2 o'clock they were arraigned before Judge Pickman and after entering a plea of guilty of disturbing the peace, they were all fined $300.

Supt. Welch in conversation with a Sun reporter this afternoon relative to the arrests, stated that the police will no more tolerate any shouting in the street, that all the officers were given strict orders to arrest any person who obstructs the street or shouts and they will do it, too, continued the chief.

REDISTRICTING BILL PASSED
The redistricting bill was passed by the house this afternoon by a vote of 133 to 100, without any amendment. Rep. Ellis of Malden presented an amendment, but it was killed by a vote of 121 against 110.

for $5000

The case of Tow vs. Zimberg which was started at superior court yesterday came to a close this morning, when the two parties involved came to a settlement out of court. This was an action of tort in the sum of $5000 brought by Tow for alleged injuries received while at work at the foundry of the defendant in Cambridge.

The next case to go to trial was that of Alexander P. Brown, an attorney of Boston who sued the Boston Elevated railroad company for alleged injuries received when the collisions occurred on the road of the defendant company in the subway in Boston between Adams and Scollay squares at 2:20 o'clock in the afternoon of January 17, 1912. The plaintiff in his declaration claimed his injuries were so serious that he was forced to go to Jacksonville, Florida in order to recuperate. The damages were $3000. The jury reported a verdict in favor of the defendant company.

The cases of Edmund K. Cheney vs. Curtis McEwan and that of Edmund J. Cheney, father of the former vs. the same in an action of tort, were next called. The damages in each case were $2000. The suits were entered as a result of an alleged automobile accident in Westford street, some time ago, in which it is claimed Edmund K. Cheney, who is a minor, was injured.

ELEVEN ARRESTS
MADE BY POLICE

Near the Merrimack Mills

This Afternoon

PLEADED GUILTY

AND PAID FINES

One of I. W. W. Leaders

Was Arrested

What would probably have been a serious riot had it not been for the quick action of the police occurred in Moody street near the corner of Dutten street this noon, when eleven picketers, all strikers at the Merrimack mill were placed under arrest for disturbing the peace. The prisoners, despite the fact that the crowd made a rush for the police were safely landed at the police station. They were all arraigned at a special session of court this afternoon. They all pleaded guilty and were fined $5 each. Among those arrested was one of the leaders, Joseph Schmidt. The banners of the I. W. W., the red flag and the American flag carried in the parade were all taken with the prisoners and removed to the station and this practically broke up the picketing for this noon.

For the past few days the chief and his subordinates have warned the picketers not to shout on the street, as the residents of this city were protesting against such action and inasmuch as it is against a certain city ordinance, they were told to stop it entirely. However, the police have tolerated it for some time, but yesterday strict orders were given that the picketers must abide by the law. As a result of the orders and the refusal of the picketers to do as told, two were arrested this morning. This seemed to put more fire into the other people and this noon they went at it in a worse way, and according to the police some had whistles in order to make more noise.

For some time they paraded in Moody street between Worthen and Dutten streets and were told several times not to shout, but they paid no attention and continued. Suddenly the police rushed into the crowd and arrested eleven. The crowd

THEATRE VOYONS

"A Lodging for the Night," a lithograph dramatic subject photographed amid the beauties of Southern Pickford in the leading role, is the feature of today's bill at the Theatre Voyons. Its story is of a traveler in a small Mexican town and a little Mexican girl. The traveler wins her gratitude by defending her from a cruel uncle and soon she has a chance to repay his good deed. It is a thrilling and at the same time likeable picture. "The Stronger Mind," a detective story with a hint of romance is one of the best of its kind and a laughable comedy completes the bill.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"The Temple Players" were given a real ovation when they appeared on the stage of the Merrimack Square theatre last night in their very catchy act entitled "Songs and Dances of Ireland." The attendance at both performances yesterday was very large and the entire bill as a whole is very pleasing. The theatre is decorated with American and Irish flags and with the stage effects presents a fine appearance.

The sketch put on by the Temple Players is cleverly presented and consists of beautiful songs one likes to hear and also of dancing which is done in good style. The solos are especially well rendered and the soloists were given several encores. The act comes to a close with Miss Hawthorne singing the beautiful song "Come back to Erin."

Another very amusing act is that presented by Blanche Holt & Co. and entitled "The Star Boarder." The sketch is full of comedy skillfully handled and is sure to please every one. The acting is well done and the four members of the company are very entertaining.

Miss Leslie Thurston, lady xylophone soloist, is indeed a real leader in her class. Her selections are sufficiently varied to suit the tastes of all, and she gives them in a strikingly clever manner. None better than Miss Thurston has been heard locally in some time. Lighting Weston, vaudeville's best cartoonist, gives a wonderful demonstration of his skill with the crayon. His drawings include those of President Taft, former President Theodore Roosevelt, and other well known personages, as well as other figures that give him opportunity to display his marvelous ability. The drawing of the sinking of the Titanic is an interesting bit of work. Emma Cameron, the week's soloist, is heard in some of the latest and best song hits.

Special mention should be made of the photo-plays. Besides being new, and the first of their kind to be shown in Lowell, they are correct portrayals taken from real life and hold interest from first to last. "An American Tourist Abroad" includes views of many of the ancient cities of Europe that are especially interesting, as well as being instructive. The views are also good. These views and photo-plays are changed three times each week and are only the biggest and best to be secured. Despite the warmth of yesterday the large crowds attending found the theatre cool and comfortable at all times.

MRS. WHITE DISCUSSED
THE GIRL PROBLEM

At Meeting of Lowell Guild—Miss Coburn Reported on the "Girls' Club" Work

The members of the Lowell Guild held a largely attended and very instructive meeting yesterday at the Whistler house. Mrs. James F. Preston presided and at the opening of the meeting she introduced Mrs. Eva W. White of Boston who is prominently identified with social work as head of the Elizabeth Peabody home of Boston. Mrs. White spoke in part as follows:

"Very little has been written on the girl problem, while much attention has been given to the question of how boys shall be cared for. Apparently, the impression has existed that the home influences are more closely drawn about the girl and that she is therefore less in need of outside help. This may be true to some extent, but it cannot be denied that home influences are deplorably lacking in many cases, and to meet such cases we have established homes and institutions that have richly justified themselves.

"In forming 'Girls' clubs,' as we did in Boston we were careful to receive all members on equal social footing. To make social distinctions in this work is to defeat your purpose. It is necessary to close our minds to the past. Comparisons are not to be permitted.

"More and more, as time passes, woman is undergoing a transition. This is true particularly in the east, where women are forced by their very numbers to seek their livelihood in mills, factories and stores. Women enjoy a certain freedom because of this that they did not enjoy 50 years ago.

"Woman's part in public affairs is growing more conspicuous. While I believe the home condition the natural condition for woman, conditions are so shaping themselves that woman's sphere must be extended.

"It is a very serious responsibility which faces those who are engaged in the uplift work—a responsibility which has a bearing not only on the present welfare of New England people, but upon the welfare of future generations.

"The work among girls is admittedly less encouraging than that among boys, for the reason that the boys are more responsive—they are more enthusiastic and from their spontaneity, one gathers courage.

"With reference to exercise for girls, I would recommend that it be a little more strenuous than that to which we have accustomed ourselves, and that

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

N. T.: Large pores, I know, are disgusting. However, you can soon reduce them if you use an alomozin cream jelly, the recipe for which I give. Put 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine in 1/2 pint cold water, then add 1 ounce alomozin. When thoroughly mixed, pour the mixture into a jar. It is ready to use. This alomozin cream-jelly should be applied plentifully and rubbed in well. After using the cream-jelly a white, soft, silken skin will be the result. The alomozin cream-jelly is useful in protecting the skin from freckles, tan and sunburn.

A. G. B.: Dieting is a cruel method of flesh reduction and a needless torture, because with a paraffin solution, made by dissolving 4 ounces paraffin in 1/2 pint hot water, you can reduce your weight without suffering or inconvenience. Taking a tablespoonful before each meal really and gradually dissolves the fat, leaving no possible injury, and when your weight is where you want it, the flesh will be firm and the skin free from wrinkles.

Mrs. A. D.: Don't experiment with alcohol "hair-tonics," because they may irritate the hair. If your scalp is itchy and scaly, you should shampoo with cantharox, then apply a little of the quinquina tonic made by putting 1/2 pint water in 1/2 pint alcohol, which is then added 1 ounce quinquina. Occasional applications of this home-made tonic soon banish dandruff and correct unnatural oiliness. The faithful use of the quinquina tonic will encourage the hair to grow in long and beautiful.

D. O.: Those troublesome hairs can be made to disappear like magic by applying a paste made with powdered salicylic acid and water. After 2 or 3 minutes it should be removed and the skin washed, when it will be found that the hairs have completely vanished. No pain or discoloration of the skin follows the use of salicylic acid.

Mrs. Max: Long, curly lashes add much to the expression of the eyes. Apply pyroxin daily to lash-roots with a brush and forefinger and your stubby eyelashes will grow long and beautiful. By putting pyroxin on eyebrows with forefinger you can make them come in thick and silky. Don't get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

Instead of "fancy work" which has been a feature of girls' instruction, work of a more recreational character is substituted. You wouldn't expect to see a well-mannered boy of 14 or 15 years who had not enjoyed a full measure of healthful play. Let us have more romping, more folk dancing, more exhilarating gymnastic work among the girls whose characters we are trying to build. Let the girls get away from themselves!

"In the character development of girls, we must consider their environment and we must govern ourselves accordingly. Learn every side of the girl's life, so that your efforts may be most effective.

"One great handicap that we have to contend against in our dealings with foreign girls is the fact that their parents know nothing about them and cannot cooperate with us. And when at length our work begins to bear fruit, the girls become ashamed of their parents; and that is a dangerous condition.

"When a girl first goes to work, I believe that she should be permitted to retain a small amount of her pay, so that she may feel that she is not obliged to accept invitations from men friends to attend cheap picture shows or go to low dance halls.

"Home making is one of the great features of our instruction, and to produce the ideal mental condition for an ideal home is a problem which must be solved by the contact of personalities. No hard fast rule can be applied to meet every case. It is a great, patriotic work, and the results will amply justify it."

In closing the speaker gave a number of practical examples of the splendid results obtained by the Peabody institution and others of similar character. Following this address Miss Harriet Coburn gave an encouraging report on the "Girls' club" work in Lowell, while Miss Annie Moore, head of district nursing, and Miss Helen Chadbourne on milk station work, also presented their reports.

The Ellis milk bill was endorsed and it was voted to ask for a general contribution of $1 up, to carry on the milk station work this summer.

The milk station report was as follows:

"The winter months have brought to the milk station 51 new babies—these with the large number with which we began the season have kept our membership roll well up and into the 90s. Even in the extreme heat of last summer, we did not go beyond these figures. It is encouraging to find so convincing a sign of growth, and it is still more encouraging to know that until the past few weeks there have been no deaths among our ranks. Very recently, pneumonia and a complication of whooping cough and measles have carried off several of the babies. But none of them have died or been ill for any length of time from any intestinal trouble.

It is fair to say that probably one reason for the continued size of our milk station family is the fact that the most of the mothers are putting up their own formulas at home. If, as during last winter, they had been obliged to send to the station each day for milk, no doubt our numbers would have fallen off considerably. When we started in the fall to teach the mothers to do their own modifying it seemed that we were undertaking a tremendous proposition and some of us felt rather hopeless as to results. However, we have for the most part been very happily surprised and many of the mothers now measure their cream, milk, water, sugar, etc., very accurately and with a good deal of pride. The home modifications are a good thing because not only do they develop the mother's sense of responsibility for her child, but they save her time and trouble in sending for the milk and they give the nurses a chance to learn more thoroughly what goes on in the homes and not only, perhaps, to "save the baby" but oftentimes to better the general home conditions. There are at present 75 home modifications. Now this new departure will work in the summer time we have yet to prove.

There have been very many stormy Tuesdays and Fridays during the winter, and so our conferences have been rather poorly attended. Now that the good weather and the hot weather that brings sick babies, is coming, doubtless these meetings will increase in size. The staff doctors have been much interested and have given very kind and faithful service. The special mothers' meetings are a helpful feature. They are held twice a month and enjoyable entertainments, and instructive talks, as well as refreshments, are provided. These are some of the late developments that have made the winter interesting and satisfactory. We all hope that the coming summer may greatly increase our usefulness and be even more of a success.

85TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

Deacon Clark M. Langley Congratulated by His Friends

DEACON CLARK M. LANGLEY.

Deacon Clark M. Langley was given a fine reception last night at the First Universalist church, the occasion being his 85th birthday anniversary. It was announced in The Sun last night, it was also the 85th anniversary of the organization of the church of which Mr. Langley has been for many years a zealous and efficient worker.

The guest of the evening was presented 85 beautiful carnations by the pastor of the church, Rev. C. E. Fisher, D. D., who delivered a short but impressive address. Other remarks were made by Rev. J. M. Craig of the First Presbyterian church. The Sunday school pupils also presented Mr. Langley a beautiful floral offering, this being followed by the presentation of the new book entitled "The Record of a City."

Addresses of felicitations were given by Dr. McLeod, Rev. Charles T. Billings and several others, while the deacon responded in a fitting manner. Several beautiful selections were rendered by the church choir.

"PLANTING" OF DYNAMITE IS CHARGED TO BREEN

Lawrence Undertaker on Trial in the Superior Court at Salem

SALEM, May 14.—John J. Breen, an undertaker in Lawrence, was placed on trial in the superior court yesterday afternoon, charged with conspiracy in "planting" dynamite in Lawrence during the textile strike in that city.

The case for the government is being conducted by Dist. Atty. Atwill, and Hon. John Kane of Lawrence is counsel for defendant. Justice Brown is presiding. Inspector Rooney of the Boston police, who was the first witness, testified in substance that he was told by Breen that he had information of dynamite in Lawrence. Arrangements were made for an investigation. Rooney came to Lawrence but did not meet Breen at the station as expected, and on going to the police station, Breen was not there, but he appeared two hours later. Rooney with other officers went to a house on Grove street as advised by Breen and found several sticks of dynamite and some caps in the apartments of a Syrian family. The party then went to a sand bank near the Arlington mills and adjoining a cemetery, but did not discover any dynamite as had been announced would be the case. On a second visit, one hour after the first inspection, the officers found sticks of dynamite wrapped in a newspaper lying on the snow. The paper, Rooney said, was not dampened.

DAY OF SUSPENSE IN RICHESON CASE

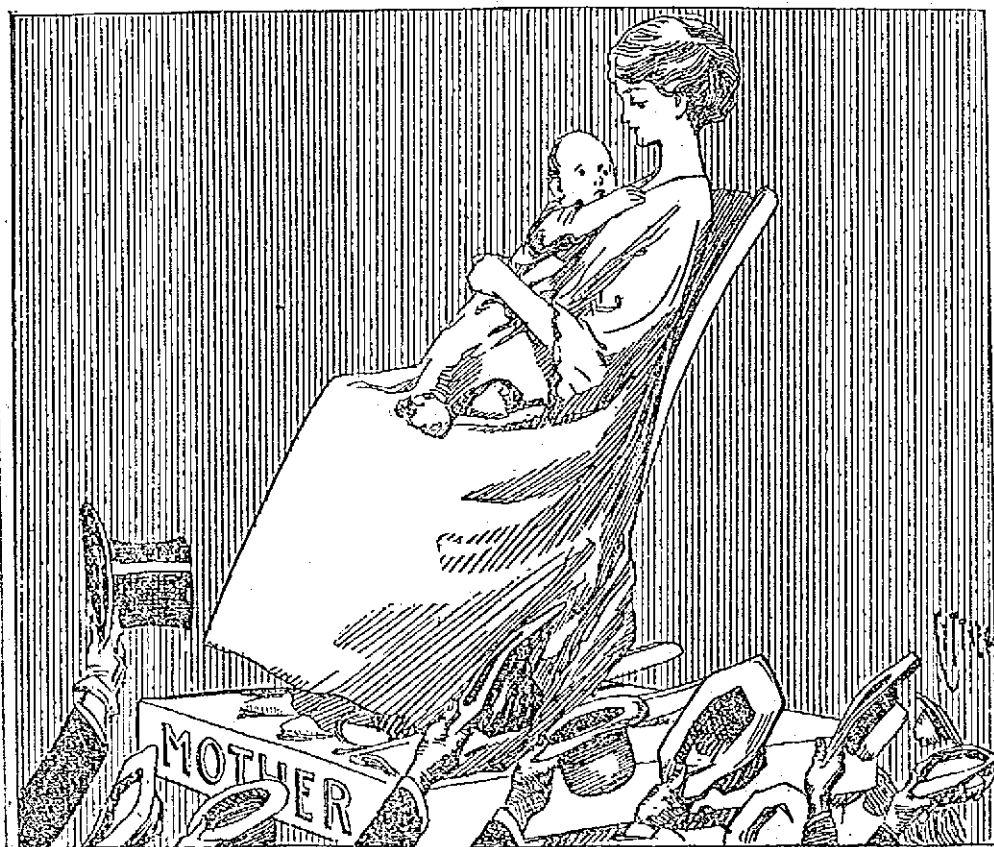

BOSTON, May 14.—For Clarence V. T. Richeson, under sentence of death for the murder of Miss Avis Limell, today was a day of suspense for it was generally expected that this was the day upon which Gov. Foss would decide whether to refer to the executive council Richeson's petition for clemency or to let the law take its course and the death penalty be imposed. The governor already has the report of one alienist, Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, who has made a study of Richeson's mental state and it was believed at the governor's office that the reports of the other three alienists, Dr. Stedman, George Tuttle and Henry P. Frost were to be submitted to the governor some time before tonight. While awaiting the governor's decision on the question of referring Richeson's plea to the executive council tomorrow the attorneys for the murderer were still hoping that the case would be submitted to the council.

"I still hope that Richeson's case will be referred," said his chief counsel, W. A. Morse, today, "although there have been a number of discouraging developments regarding the course the matter is taking. To use a nautical phrase, I have held to one tack right along and now I am hoove to."

Mr. Morse planned to call on his client at the Charles street jail later in the day. During the forenoon Mr. Morse conferred with some persons who will in the event that Richeson's petition is referred to the council offer evidence tending to corroborate the claim that the prisoner is mentally unbalanced.

Richeson has come through the trying ordeal of more than 60 hours examination by mental experts in good shape. Although it had been expected that the strain of the protracted sessions with the alienists might produce a condition of collapse, Dr. O. G. Cilles, the jail physician, said that the former Baptist minister was in perfect physical condition today. Secrecy continued to surround the plans for Richeson's removal from the Suffolk county jail on Charles street, where he has been confined since his arrest last October, to a cell adjoining the death chamber of the state prison at Charlestown.

It was understood that the prisoner's removal would not be deferred until Gov. Foss had indicated to Sheriff Quinn, keeper of the jail, his decision on referring the petition to the council. The sheriff desires that Richeson may have some hope left when removed to the death cell. The law provides that the removal of a prisoner from a county jail to the death house shall be made as secretly as possible. There is only one gate through which vehicles may enter or leave the jailyard and it is thought that unless Richeson is carried to Charlestown in a prison van he will be removed in a carriage during the hours of darkness.

REV. EDWARD EVERETT RESIGNS

Former Lowell Clergyman to Locate in Oakland, California

Rev. Edward Everett, formerly of the House of Prayer of this city, who for the past three years has been stationed at St. John's church, Roxbury, as assistant curate, has tendered his resignation to the latter parish to accept the pastorate of a church in Oakland, California. He was very popular while in Lowell and made many friends during his stay at the House of Prayer. While at St. John's church he met with great success and the following article, which appeared in this month's issue of the St. John's Journal, a paper published by the church, explains how the resignation of the popular clergyman is felt by his parishioners in Roxbury.

It is with deep sorrow the Journal records this month the resignation of the Rev. Edward Everett as assistant curate of St. John's. He has completed nearly three years of most faithful and painstaking service in the parish, endeavoring himself while ministering the consolations of the gospel of Christ to the faithful, the afflicted, the erring and the ignorant. A priest peculiarly gifted for the personal ministry to individual souls, he has gone early and late in and out among our people, comforting the sick with the blessed sacrament, comforting mourners, seeking out strangers, looking up the negligent. Now the call has come which he believes is the voice of God bidding him to go far away to take up the Master's work at Oakland, Cal., as vicar of St. John's, the parish church. It means practically the acceptance of a call to the domestic mission field, for although his work will be in the diocese of California, which long ago ceased to be a missionary jurisdiction, it is still largely a missionary field. His going means self-sacrifice and the leaving behind of much he holds dear. In our sorrow for his departure we can't rejoice in sending him forth as another servant of Christ from St. John's for the missionary work of the church.

REV. EDWARD EVERETT.

We shall not only miss him, but Mrs. Everett also, who has been a great help in the parish as the personal friend of many of our people, a faithful member of the Altar Guild and the Women's auxiliary, and constant worshipper at St. John's both Sundays and week days. May God bless them both in their new work with good health and spiritual strength as they labor to build up the church of his dear son in their distant field.

Dr. W. W. Christmas Plans to Carry Mail in an Aeroplane

W.W. CHRISTMAS

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Dr. W. W. Christmas is the inventor of an aeroplane in which he expects to transport mail from Washington to New York. The machine is a biplane, but is built on the cantilever principle, which, he says, increases the rigidity and stability. Dr. Christmas at first expected to direct the aeroplane himself, but he finally decided to let Paul Peck, a well known aviator of this city, handle the craft. Postmaster-General Hitchcock has issued an order for the sending of the mail, the new aerial route to be known as No. 607,002. The flight will probably be made May 18 if the weather is favorable.

THE SOCIALISTS

HOLDING THEIR NATIONAL CON-VENTION IN INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14.—"Progressive opportunists" and "immediate revolutionists" opposed each other at the opening of today's session of the socialist national convention. This was the division of the 29 delegates upon the election of platform and resolutions committees won by the "opportunists," or conservatives, led by Congressman Victor Berger of Wisconsin and Charles Edward Russell of New York, by large majorities.

Determined not to alienate trades unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor-day by adopting a platform approving the labor unit scheme of the Industrial Workers of the World the platform committee, the majority's leader said, would submit a plan of action reiterating the socialist "program" but ignoring the demand of the revolutionary wing for an immediate upset of the capitalist system and taking over of the means of production by the "workers." A show of hands was expected on the request of W. D. Haywood, a leader of the Industrial Workers and a member of the executive committee of the socialist party that the executive committee report at once to the convention on the telegraphic plea for an appropriation in support of the free speech fight at San Diego, Cal.

LUCY LARCOM PARK GREATLY IMPROVED

Men From Chelmsford
St. Hospital Did Work

Lucy Larcom park is looking, clean, green and inviting at the present time. The municipal council did not appropriate any money this year for the care of parks but Mayor O'Donnell had three or four men come down from the Chelmsford Street hospital and clean up the park. It was in a rather deplorable condition before the men started in with their rakes and other implements and today it is quite presentable. The mayor and the chairman of the park commission are the trustees of Lucy Larcom park and that is why the mayor took it upon himself to have the park attended to. The expense of cleaning the park will come out of the charity department appropriation.

Inasmuch as no money has been appropriated for parks, Shedd park will not receive very much attention this summer. Relative to this park, Mayor O'Donnell said: "The city, in its present financial condition, ought not to spend any considerable amount of money for the development of Shedd park this present year. Mr. Shedd's gift was a very generous one and everybody appreciates the fact that it was made in the proper spirit. Mr. Shedd is a good business man and he knows that the city, in its present financial condition, cannot afford to do anything toward the improvement of that park this present year.

THE REAL SECRET OF REJUVENATING THE FACE

(From The Clubwoman)
She holds the true secret of facial rejuvenation who has learned how to remove the dead skin particles as fast as they appear. It's a secret anyone may possess. The aged, lined or discolored surface skin may be gradually absorbed, in an entirely safe and rational manner, by the ordinary application of ordinary mercurochrome wax. Within a week or two the underlying skin, youthful and beautiful to behold, has taken the place of the discolored outer. So little of the old skin is absorbed each day there's no inconvenience at all and no one suspects you are putting anything on your face. The mercurochrome wax, procurable at any drug store, (an ounce is sufficient), is applied like cold cream. In the morning it is washed off with soap and water. It's the best thing known for freckles, blackheads, pimples, moth patches, liver spots and nascent wrinkles. For the deeper wrinkles an excellent recipe is: powdered rosin, 1 oz., dissolved in 1/2 pint which lard. Rubbing the face in the solution produces quick and wonderful results.

BOXER HIT THE REFEREE

in New Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, May 14.—Even the referee had to fight at the New Bedford Athletic club meet last night. Joe Chick of Fall River, enraged at his failure to get a draw in his fight with Young Jasper of Boston, rushed at Referee Hugh Devlin and punched him with both hands. Devlin returned the blow and then a policeman jumped into the ring and slammed Chick into his corner.

The main bout between Harry Lenny of Baltimore and Kid McDonald of Rosindale resulted in a victory for Lenny, who outpointed his man nearly the whole distance, though McDonald, who fought a rough hard fight, finished the 12 rounds in fairly good shape. Chick made a good showing against Jasper, the decision for the latter being strictly on points.

There were two preliminaries. In the first one Young Ward of Fall River bested Kid Burns of this city in one round. He then went up against Young Dias of this city for a six-round exhibition. Dias was knocked down six times in the first round, but came back strong and had Ward groggy in the sixth. Dias got the decision.

RAMSEY'S BOUT
PHILADELPHIA, May 14.—In one of the slowest bouts at the American A. C. this season Harry Ramsey of this city won by a slight margin over Bill McKinnon of Boston last night, the bout going the six rounds.

It was nothing but clinch during the major part of the fight, though Ramsey tried hard to start something. Every time he attempted to lead, however, McKinnon would clinch.

The Bostonian started off in good shape, using a left jab, which landed frequently on the local fighter's face. After the beginning of the second round Ramsey scored heavily with body punches. McKinnon retaliated with a straight left every time they broke from a clinch.

It appeared that neither cared to take a chance of mixing it up.

LANGFORD WHIPS BARRY
MELBOURNE, Australia, May 14.—Sam Langford the heavy-weight colored boxer of Boston last night defeated Jim Barry the Chicago heavy-weight. Barry was completely outclassed and the referee stopped the fight in the 11th round.

Bradley of the Boston Americans
One of Season's Big Surprises

Bradley, the Boston Red Sox young infielder, is helping make American league baseball history this season. The youngster started the campaign at third base and played brilliantly. Then Manager Jake Stahl was laid up, and the youngster was shifted to first. Right from the start he played a grand game—in fact, Stahl, who has now recovered, says he intends to remain on the bench and let Bradley continue to play the base. And Stahl, by the way, is one of the best first sackers in the American league. It is unusual to see a manager who is a star himself giving up a position to a youngster, but the Red Sox leader says Bradley in his present form is a better man on the sack than himself.

SAYS TY COBB BORROWS CREDIT

Joe Birmingham of the Cleveland nine declares that if Ty Cobb had had any other man than Sam Crawford following him in the batting order his base stealing record would not be so great. "I haven't made such a statement without considering the matter," said Birmingham.

"Put Sam Crawford up behind any one of a half dozen players in this league and their base stealing records would increase immensely. Conditions will support my argument. In the first place, every catcher is handicapped almost five feet in throwing to second when Sam is up. You know, Sam lays way back of that home plate.

"A catcher would take his life in his hands if he dared to get in the customary position behind the plate, for Sam takes an awful wallop. Five feet doesn't seem like a great distance, but when it is taken into consideration that a vast number of base stealers are checked by the merest margin of seconds five feet looms up as considerable distance.

"Sam Crawford wields a young telegraph pole. There are few players in baseball who could handle such a club. And Sam spreads that club all over an immense amount of air. It's usually in the way or thereabouts. At least it's a factor with which the catcher must always reckon. Finally, Sam is a left handed batter. Any time a pitcher hurls a pitch out to catch Cobb stealing the catcher is thrown into an awkward position. He can't possibly be set for a throw. There another portion of a second is lost."

JASPER AND EAGAN
IN THE MAIN BOUTAt Meeting of the Lowell
S. and A. Club

The program for this week's meeting of the Lowell Social and Athletic club is a very good one. The main bout will be furnished by Young Jasper of Boston and Kid Eagan of Woburn. These are two great rivals. Billy Nixon was to meet Jasper, but as he is on the sick list, Matchmaker Gardner has signed Eagan to take his place. Eagan is a very clever boy. He met Jasper before and got the decision after one of the best bouts ever seen in Boston. He also defeated Young Clapey who appeared at the club two weeks ago and was defeated by Eddy Flynn. Eagan was signed up yesterday and he expects to be in good condition for the meeting. Young Jasper is well known in Lowell. He has appeared here on several occasions and has always given satisfaction. He is a great fighter and is in training for the mill. He will try his best to defeat Eagan, as this will be the first time he has had a chance to get back, for the defeat he received from the last Eagan a short time ago. The semi-final should prove one of the best ever staged. This will introduce to the members Paddy De Luca, one of the fast Boston boys, and Charlie Anastos, the local Greek champion. De Luca has a long list of victories to his credit and is one of the fastest boys in this vicinity at his weight. Anastos, whose ability is well known to the members of the club, feels confident that he will put the fast Boston boy to the sheets. It is scheduled to go eight rounds. The preliminary will show Young Josephs and Young Keeler, both of this city. The latter is coming along at a fast clip. Last week he appeared at the club and won in the second round by the K. O. route. Josephs is also going fast and their offering ought to be good. The other prelim. will be announced later. The meeting will be held in Matthew Hall on Thursday evening.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

THE LOCAL AUTO BUSINESS IS BRISK

Dealers Are Kept Busy Demonstrating and a Number of Sales Are Reported—News From the Different Garages

At this season of the year when motorists begin to catch the spring fever of touring, thoughts mechanically turn toward the problem of good roads building.

Judging by the numerous appropriations for good roads which are being considered by the state legislatures throughout the country it would seem that 1912 will go down in history as a record breaker in the advancement of improved highways. New York state with an impending appropriation of fifty million dollars appears to head the list.

The whole country is stirred as never before relative to this great question of highway improvement. If there is anything in the world that a good citizen who loves his state and has civic or state pride delights in it is to have the city and state reputation maintained.

Never in the history of this country has the finger pointed so strongly to the attitude of the states towards this question. A commonwealth's reputation for enterprise, progress and all that goes to make it worth living is determined to a great extent by the character of its roads—the great arteries through which flow the business and pleasure life of a state.

When a farmer loads his wagon he has in mind the worst part of the road over which it has to go, whether that be one or five or six hundred feet long, or has a hundred feet or hundred miles of good road at each end. He knows that its worst hill or mud hole limits the size of the load he can move. Because this is so the maximum efficiency of a stretch of highway does not exceed the maximum load that a man can haul over the poorest spot in it.

The automobile has been the greatest factor in securing better highways but the motorist is not the only beneficiary. The farmer has probably received more direct benefit than any one class. Good roads appeal to all whether he be a pedestrian, a bicyclist, a horseman or a motor car tourist. Good roads are a boon to mankind and have probably done more than any one thing to raise farm values. Good roads are an important factor in advertising a community and regardless of its size or manufacturing magnitude, a town's progress is often judged by the condition of its thoroughfares and outlying highways.

It seems to me that the hundreds of automobile clubs and associations could do no better work for its members than to wage a campaign for better roads for the next few months, even if other club work has to be neglected.

Rain Interferes With Business

The inclement weather during the past week greatly interfered with the sales of automobiles for stormy weather is anything but encouraging to a prospective customer. In various garages throughout the city people who anticipated buying cars made appointments to be given demonstrations but when the time for the demonstration arrived the weather was such that they postponed the demonstration until a future date.

Despite the fact that the number of sales of cars has been comparatively small there is plenty of repair work being done and scores of cars are being overhauled and painted at the repair and paint shops. With plenty of sunshine and good weather there will be a general rush for new cars.

At the Garages

The Oakland Seashore roadster, which is a novelty in this city this year, seating three persons side by side, has become very popular and there are several of these models traversing the local streets, and there are a number of orders for such models which have not yet been filled. The management of the Moody Bridge garage expects to have another car load of this model during the present week.

James Ranker, the popular manager of the Moody Bridge garage repair shop, is one of the busiest men in Lowell at the present time, having been kept busy night and day for the past few weeks.

The Lowell Motor Mart in Merrimack street, corner of Tilden, has been cleaned out of Ford cars, the demand for this popular car having been so great that at the present time he has not one car in his show room, but within a day or two there will be plenty for there are 12 cars on their way from the factory.

A large electric sign has been placed on the Lowell Motor Mart and when illuminated can be seen for a long distance.

Contractor Charles P. Conant is erecting a modern garage in the rear of his residence at the corner of Beacon and Elm streets. It is expected that the structure will be completed within about a week.

The number of sales of the various models of the Buick this year has been remarkable and although the rainy weather of the past week caused a depression in the sales department, prompt deliveries are being made and scores of new Buicks are traversing the streets. Many people who have owned Buicks for years have turned over their old cars for new ones while in other instances owners of various other cars have traded in their cars for 1912 Buicks.

If you're an autoist you should know the value of cotter pins, but if it happens that you do not, call and see Harry Pitts at his establishment in Hurd street, and have him explain the value which the cotter pins place on the car. Harry made a "test" in a consignment of cotter pins last week and the autoists of this city are to reap the benefit, for he is offering the best value procureable at a very low price. For the accommodation of his customers who find it inconvenient to get to his place during business hours Harry has decided to keep his establishment open evenings hereafter until further notice.

Do you think it is possible to manufacture an auto truck to retail at $150, which would be capable of following a touring car through mountainous elevations and low lands for a distance of 1500 miles, weighted with hundreds of pounds of baggage?

Whether you do, or not, is not material, but this is identically what the chassis of a Rep truck which George P. White, the local distributing agent, received from the factory last Friday did. The tour which the truck entered and went through successfully was the "Gildred," which was held last year from New York to Florida. The committee having in charge the tour after completing arrangements for the same, wondered how it would arrange to have the baggage of the entrants transported from place to place each day. Owing to the strict regulations governing the contest no wearing apparel or tools except those that the driver or companion actually required, were allowed in the car.

The problem appeared to be one which was very hard to meet, because the sending of baggage by train would prove more or less inconvenient through delays or distances which would have to be traversed to bring the baggage to the hotel, which, in many cases was far removed from a railroad. As a final effort to overcome this apparently unsolvable problem, the governing board issued an invitation to the truck builders of the country, asking them to offer their trucks. The Rep company was the only one to respond and the Rep was the truck which completed the test with a record comparing with that of the highest priced car in the run.

The Rep trucks will be quite numerous on the streets of this city, this year, as 12 orders have been received by Mr. White.

This week was just as successful as far as sales went as any since Mr. White took the agency. Two touring models were sold, one to a party who wished to have his name with the other to Charles E. Jameson of Grand street.

THE MOTOR TRUCK OF GREAT VALUE

To the Merchants and Manufacturers

That merchants and manufacturers in all lines are alive to the value of the motor truck is evident to all who get a broad view of the situation all over the world. The progressive business men of today avail himself of every modern device for doing things economically, which at the same time is always a saver of time and labor. Past-century methods, in this age of progression, are an impediment.

If merchants in all lines would make a practice of keeping itemized accounts of the cost of their delivery, they would become easier converts to the use of motor trucks. All must concede that stable equipment must be maintained, whether business is active or dull, and the horse out of use is just as expensive as the horse that is giving full service. Compare this with the economy of the motor vehicle which needs neither fuel nor oil except when in service and which requires but little stable room and attention when not in use. This is the answer, and will in all probability be the decisive feature in inducing merchants to abandon past-century methods in favor of power-wagon transportation.

The amount of saving, of course, varies with individual business requirements; but speaking in general terms, it may be said that a power wagon kept in constant service will cut delivery cost from 20 per cent. upward. The cost of transportation can be determined just as logically as the cost of operating any other machine. It is merely a question of measuring the work required and measuring the cost, and placing one against the other. In other words, you pay only for measured service.

Delivery in large cities is becoming more and more difficult, owing to the enormous territory to be covered, especially where a large and successful trade is to be established and maintained. The range of delivery service has gradually become extended until the horse is incapable of covering the necessary distances during the day, and when used is practically unfit for service the following day, whenever extended routes are attempted. With motor trucks these long routes are easily covered with dispatch, making possible earlier deliveries of goods in districts which previously did not receive deliveries until the following day.

The increased efficiency of this service means increased satisfaction among the merchants' patrons. It is a strong feature in attracting a greater volume of trade to his store. Quick deliveries are always appreciated, and the trade will inevitably drift to the store which can guarantee such service.

Entered in Annual 500 Mile International Sweepstakes to be Held at Indianapolis on Memorial Day

Carrying with it more than $50,000 in cash prizes for the winners, the second annual 500 mile International Sweepstakes race will be started at ten o'clock the morning of Memorial day, May 30, with twenty-seven speedy racing cars as contenders for the victory. This number entered the race before the closing of the entries at midnight May 1. Manning the cars are almost all of the famous racing pilots in America, and several who have international reputations for prowess at the wheel. Taken throughout the field of starters in this long grind is the classiest that ever has been brought together in one contest.

Last year there were more entries, but only the fastest cars have been entered for the second race, and the terrific speed and endurance demands in the grueling fray were too great for many to tackle again. With about one exception all of the cars this time were among the fastest in the first 500-mile race, which furnished the most spectacular contest ever witnessed in the history of the sport. It is believed that the average speed will be as high as seventy-nine miles per hour. The last race brought out an average of 74.51 miles for the five-century distance.

Almost without exception the pilots who are practicing for the big race believe that the new record will equal that established for 500 miles on the road at Santa Monica. Some have ventured the opinion that eighty miles per hour will be necessary for the winning car. Last year the drivers were correct in their estimate of speed, most of them saying the seventy-four or seventy-five miles per hour would be the result.

Despite the fact that the eliminating speed was set at seventy-five miles per hour for one full lap of the track most of the motors which have been specially built for the race carry from 100 to 130 miles per hour beneath their bonnets. This great speed capacity is provided because the requirements of the race may make it necessary to have it at times and sufficient power must be held in reserve so that the motors will not be strained in maintaining an average of about eighty miles.

Six of the world's greatest drivers will be listed in the field which will start in the race.

Those shown above are Win Barnollar who will drive the White-Six, the famous old steam cars which used to set the world's speed records on the Florida beaches; Bob Burman, the greatest of them all, the world's speed king, who has a cutting to pilot through the five-century grid; Len Zengel, winner of the Elgin National Stock Chassis road race in 1911, who will drive a Stutz car; Ralph Mulford, one of the greatest winners of the 1911 season, who clinched his career by winning the Vanderbilt Cup race, and has purchased a six-cylinder Knox for this great event; Harry Knight, who created the greatest thrill in last year's race in an accident before the grand stand, when to save the life of a mechanic who had fallen on the track, he steered his car into the cement wall, and Charlie Merz, who is the third member of the Stutz racing team. Merz formerly belonged to the National crew of racing drivers and won many notable victories with those cars.

Harvey Herriek, world's road champion, will appear behind the wheel of a Case racing car; Gil Anderson, who successfully carried through a Stutz car in the last 500-mile race, has the same kind of a mount. Howard Wil-

A motor-driven vehicle will do a certain amount of hauling in less time and at less cost than horse and wagon equipment. That's conceded. Therefore, the delivery questions that confront the business man of today are: "Which motor truck is best adapted to my use, will give the best service, can be operated with the least expense, and is the best value for the money?" The degree of success of the motor wagon proposition depends to a great extent upon how well the purchaser answers these questions for himself before purchasing.

The International auto wagon was one of the first commercial cars on the market, and from its inception there has been a constant growth in the volume of sales. This in itself is convincing proof that it has given satisfaction—that it has proved a profitable investment for the business man.

PERJURY IS CHARGED AGAINST GEORGE FERRIS

Trial of the Case Begun in the Suffolk County Court House in Boston

The Defendant Was Indicted by Middlesex County
Grand Jury--Case Grew Out of the County Ring Investigation

In the Suffolk county criminal court yesterday at Boston, the case of Commonwealth vs. Geo. A. Ferris, formerly an officer at the Lowell jail, was called. The charge against Mr. Ferris is perjury brought on an indictment by the Middlesex county grand jury. This case grows from the investigation of the "county ring" and is of the same character as the Palmer case recently tried. At the investigation in question, it is alleged, that the defendant testified that the family of the late Harry E. Shaw used trip books which were intended for his use alone as a county official.

District Attorney Higgins appeared for the Commonwealth and counsel for defendant are Henry F. Hurlbert, Arthur Brooks of Boston and George F. Toye of Lowell.

Most of the time yesterday was taken up in skirmishes between counsel on points of law and the reading of the stenographic notes of the grand jury testimony.

Today's Session

The case of the Commonwealth against George A. Ferris, formerly an officer at the Lowell jail, who was indicted for perjury by a Middlesex county grand jury, which was opened before Judge Chase and a jury in the second session of the criminal court at the court house in Pemberton square yesterday, was resumed at 2:30 o'clock this morning.

Frank R. Gokey, who was clerk of the Middlesex county grand jury which heard the testimony in the so-called county ring investigation, was the first witness called. His testimony was practically along the same line as that brought out during the Jackson Palmer case which was heard in East Cambridge last year.

Witness testified that on July 18, 1911 the grand jury filed a report at East Cambridge.

Lawyer Hurlbert on cross examination asked: "Did Mr. Higgins draw up that report?"

"He did not," was the answer.

"Who did?"

"The grand jury."

Witness then testified that Mr. Ferris testified relative to the condition at the Lowell jail before the grand jury among the other witnesses was the Middlesex county commissioners and officials at the Lowell jail.

Further questioned by Lawyer Hurlbert, witness said that Mr. Michael J. Sughrue informed the grand jury that he had made an investigation of the conditions in Middlesex county and stated that there was an extravagance at the Lowell jail and that many unnecessary repairs had been made at the jail, especially in the installation of a new bath room at that place.

Mr. Gokey was put through a rigid cross-examination by Lawyer Hurlbert and the witness frequently asked that the question be repeated and after the question had been repeated he had a number of memory and at times said that he could not recall what different witnesses testified before the grand jury.

At this point District Attorney Higgins and Lawyer Hurlbert got into an argument relative to the admission of certain testimony which had been testified to by the witness at another trial. The court allowed certain questions to be asked but ruled out the others.

Arthur J. Travers

Arthur J. Travers, who was a member of the grand jury, testified that the session of the grand jury lasted 33 days and that he heard Mr. Ferris testify. Witness then gave a number of names of persons who had offered testimony.

Continuing the witness said that Lawyer Sughrue had testified relative to conditions at the Lowell jail, stating that Mr. Sughrue spoke of certain cotton waste, also about a bath room that had been installed, unnecessary repairs of the steam heating plant, the use of officers as coachmen and the use of county property by a club.

"Was anything said about Mr. Shaw selling a horse?" was asked by the district attorney.

"Yes, sir," was the answer.

Witness said that Mr. Sughrue in testifying before the grand jury relative to conditions at the Lowell jail said that he had not made a personal investigation, that he had received the information from different sources.

Cross Examination

On cross-examination by Lawyer Hurlbert the witness gave the names of the various witnesses who testified before the grand jury.

The witness said that Mr. Sughrue gave the grand jury an opinion that Sheriff Fairbairn should remove Mr. Shaw on account of extravagance and that the sale of horses and carriages and cotton waste was illegal. Witness also said, in answer to a question asked, that Lawyer Brooks said that the delivery of goods to the Vesper-county club was unlawful.

At this point testimony relative to the testimony of Jackson Palmer, found guilty of perjury by a Middlesex county jury, was referred to by the district attorney and the witness said that he heard Mr. Palmer testify.

Sheriff Fairbairn

Sheriff John R. Fairbairn of Middlesex county, who testified yesterday, was recalled and testified relative to what he told at the hearing before the grand jury.

The witness said that he knows Mr. Ferris, the defendant, and that the latter was an officer at the house of correction for a month and that on April 20, 1911, he was transferred to the Lowell jail where he remained until 1912.

"Did the defendant ever mention anything to you about Mr. Shaw using tickets furnished by the county for private or personal traveling, either by himself or family?" was asked.

The answer was in the negative.

On cross-examination Sheriff Fairbairn said that he had been informed by a person, who was not employed at the jail, that mattresses and bedding had been taken from the jail to the Vesper-county club during the automobile course several years ago.

At this point a short recess was taken.

Horace A. Edgcombe, a shorthand reporter with an office at Barristers hall in Boston, was called after the recess. He testified that he took a portion of the testimony of the witness before the grand jury.

The witness had five note books containing a stenographic report of the proceedings before the grand jury, and referring to the testimony offered by Mr. Ferris, read a portion of the latter's testimony in which he said that the cost of railroad tickets between Lowell and Boston was excessive. The report also showed that Mr. Ferris had testified he knew that the family used the tickets and had heard the wife and daughters ask Mr. Shaw for tickets at least fifty times.

At the request of Lawyer Hurlbert witness read, from his notes, the testimony offered by Mr. Ferris. According to the stenographic notes read by witness, Mr. Ferris testified that Mr. Shaw was in the habit of swapping off cows and that after the cows had been milked the cream was sent to Mr. Shaw's house and the skimmed milk was given to the prisoners. Later Mr. Shaw's taking charge of the jail the milk was purchased inasmuch as cows were not kept on the premises.

After the witness had been reading from his notes for about ten minutes District Attorney Higgins offered a typewritten copy of Mr. Ferris' testimony to Lawyer Hurlbert and the latter spent about 15 minutes in perusing the testimony.

Mrs. Carter

The next witness called was Mrs. Alice Shaw Carter, daughter of the late Harry Shaw. She testified to living at the house connected with the jail from the time her father was appointed keeper until he died, in 1910. Witness said that she was married while residing at the house on the jail premises. Mrs. Carter was questioned relative to her testimony before the grand jury and she told in substance what she testified to.

"Did your father ever give you a ticket for your own private use, which to your knowledge, was a county ticket?" asked Mr. Higgins.

"No, sir."

"Did you ever go into the jail office and ask your father for the county ticket?"

"I did not."

Mrs. Carter later testified that she frequently traveled between Lowell and Boston but that she either used a trip book or a balance ticket or purchased tickets from a ticket broker.

Mrs. Carter said she bought tickets at O'Brien's at the Richardson hotel. "I would get a ticket book," continued the witness, "and after coming back from Boston would return it and pay for it." She said her mother and sisters also bought tickets at O'Brien's.

Continuing witness said, "In 1907 I used the school tickets for I attended Mr. Sargent's school." She also purchased tickets at the ticket office. She said she went to Boston with her father and used either a ticket she got at O'Brien's or one she received from her mother, or a single fare she purchased at the ticket office.

On cross examination witness said she was 25 years of age and that she was married on October 27, 1909. She stated she lived at the jail house for a month after her marriage. "I don't believe," she said, "I ever asked father for a ticket. I knew that father's book was a county book, and I don't remember going to father and asking him for a book and him saying that my mother had it."

At this point recess was taken.

Court resumed at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and Mrs. Carter was recalled.

She was questioned relative to her school ticket and also to alleged use of county tickets. She swore she never got a ticket book from either her father or Mr. Ferris in the jail. Witness was positive Mr. Ferris never handed her a trip book.

Mrs. Ethel Shaw Churchill of Swampscott, another daughter of the late Harry Shaw, who was married in June, 1909, was called to the witness stand and she said she used her mother's trip book to Boston and also bought tickets from O'Brien's and from Kelley's. On other occasions she purchased tickets at the Lowell station. She said she never used a county trip book. At this point there was a heated argument between counsel relative to the testimony.

Continuing witness said she knew

STOCK MARKET

WAS STRONG AT THE CLOSE THIS AFTERNOON

Dullness Prevailed in the Last Hour--
There Was a Rise in Canadian Pacific--Renewed Strength in Union Pacific

NEW YORK, May 14.—Buying of the anthracite coal stocks was the prominent feature at the opening of today's market. Lehigh Valley soon rose 1 1/2 with a substantial fractional gain for Reading. Can. Pac. made a new high record with an overnight gain of 1 1/2. American Sugar was the strongest of the industrials, advancing 1 1/2. U. S. Steel and the metal stocks showed underlying strength. There was some weakness in the International Harvester, Republic Iron & Steel and Rock Island pfds.

Profit-taking met the rise in the coal stocks but neither Lehigh Valley nor Reading yielded materially while many of the other standard shares made further gains. U. S. Steel was the chief feature of this group, advancing two points on heavy trading. Canadian Pacific soon added to its record price of the opening and was followed by a smart rise in Minn. St. Paul and St. Marie.

The rise paroled largely of a drive against the short interest, which had grown in the last few days by reason of the government's inquiry against the corporation. The fact that prices of many manufactured products in steel and iron have recently been advanced, was a helpful factor. There was further realizing in the Lehigh Valley and Reading stocks with reactions in Amn. Can. common and pfds, whose speculative connection with the coal stocks is generally understood.

Further buying of U. S. Steel sent the price up to 7 1/4 during the noon hour with some reactions later while the more active stocks of the early session were subjected to some pressure. New York Central and U. P. advanced then a point or more.

An abrupt rise of almost five points in International Harvester gave color to the old report of a probable settlement of the suit instituted by the government. But of this there was no confirmation. Announcement of another advance in the price of copper metal due to renewed demand failed to strengthen the copper shares to an appreciable extent.

The market closed strong. Dullness ruled in the last hour, which was notable chiefly for a further rise in Canadian Pacific and one of its allied roads and some heaviness in Lehigh Valley and American Canadian. Otherwise the movement lacked any feature of prominence, the general tendency being toward reaction, except for American Tobacco, which more than made up its previous weakness by renewed strength in Union Pacific.

THE RIVER ROAD BILL HEARING HELD TODAY

Large Delegation Attended From
This City and All Favored the Measure

Before the ways and means committee of the legislature at Boston today, a hearing was held on the bill to appropriate a sum sufficient to complete the river road so-called, between Lowell and Lawrence, the expense to be met conjointly by the state and the counties in the proportion of 75 per cent and 25 per cent respectively. There was a delegation from Lowell, including Secretary Murphy of the board of trade, City Solicitor Hennessy, Alderman James E. Donnelly, Ex-Senator Hibbard, Robert Marden, Fred Horne, representing the Automobile association and Warren Fox of Dracut. Several of the delegation including Secretary Murphy and Robert Marden spoke in favor of the measure. The entire delegation from Lowell and Dracut favored the bill. Representative Willett went before the ways and means committee and said the bill had been approved by the committee on roads and bridges. No final action has yet been taken on the bill to establish the Merrimack Valley board, but the general impression is that it will not go through in its present form.

ALLEGED CASE OF CRUELTY

If the published despatches are to be credited Supt. Tibbitts of the Millville Orphans' Home was guilty of unpardonable cruelty in giving an eleven-year-old boy forty-eight lashes on the bare back. The superintendent had heard that the little fellow stole thirty-five cents and some shoe strings. Here is the reported testimony of the superintendent who is also chaplain—

"He admitted that he had stolen thirty-five cents and some shoestrings; the former from one of the boys in the home and the shoestrings from St. Paul's school.

"I followed along soon after, and on my way out I cut a stick about three feet in length and as large as one's finger. When I arrived Arthur was ready for his punishment, all his clothes having been removed. I took him by the arm and struck him twenty-four times with the stick. I struck him with as much force as I could muster.

"He struggled a great deal and screamed. I then waited about two or three minutes and then, holding him in the same manner, I struck him twenty-four times more, again using all the force that I had. He was much excited and crying loudly, and I had him sent to his room and put in bed. Later I sent Mrs. Barrett up to his room to comfort him as best she could."

Strange to say Tibbitts was promptly discharged by the presiding judge in the Concord, N. H., court in which the case was called. It seems that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children should look into this case, find if the reported version of it be true and if so have the inhuman chaplain punished.

The chaplain who has no more feeling than to inflict such brutal punishment upon a boy and an orphan at that should be placed under restraint. No child is safe in his charge. If he lashed a dog or an old horse in the same manner he would be locked up. Has it come to the point wherein the child has less consideration than the lower animals?

It is probable that the whole matter will be investigated and that something may be done to stop the cruel treatment of children at the Orphans' Home under Supt. Tibbitts. Had this gentleman been brought to court for abusing a horse he would certainly have been fined if the evidence were half as strong against him as it was on the charge of assaulting the boy.

SOCIALIST DISFRANCHISED

The judge of a United States district court in Seattle, Wash., has disfranchised one Leonard Olson for being a socialist and advocating doctrines subversive of the constitution of the United States. It is not likely that any such decision will stand as there are many men not socialists such for example as Theodore Roosevelt who advocate the overthrow or radical amendment of the constitution. The law will probably not sustain this decision, but we do not see why some judge long ago has not annulled the citizenship of men who flaunt the red flag of anarchy and openly profess this dangerous doctrine in public. The professed anarchist should have no foothold on American soil.

THE INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology which has recently been appealing to the state for assistance has had unusual good luck in receiving large donations and bequests. The state started the gifts with one million dollars. Then an unknown donor, supposed to be Edison, followed with $2,500,000. Then came other gifts and bequests; the last being a bequest of $750,000 by Charles H. Pratt, making the total for the year $6,250,000. Mr. Pratt's bequest is for a school of naval architecture which will be a new feature in connection with the institute. With these various sums the new "Tech" should be the finest of the kind in the world.

THE RICHESON CASE

The fate of Richeson hangs upon the decision of the alienists as it did in the Thaw case. If Richeson could put up enough money he would be sent away for a few years to be confined in an asylum and then turned loose on the world once more. There seems to be very little doubt of Richeson's sanity and just as little that he has an abnormal bump of criminality. Most murderers have but that is not insanity. It is a fact, however, that the manner in which the alienists have been working upon him is enough to drive any man to the verge of insanity.

The state senate is accused of killing the senatorial preference bill in the interest of Senator Crane. There would have been no protest on this action but for the inconsistency of voting for a presidential preference bill. If the people express a preference for president they should have an equal chance to show whom they want for United States senators. Senator Crane will come up for election next year and the people would doubtless like to have a word to say on the selection of a candidate for his place.

The aeroplane that stops high in the air and falls with a crash to the earth is not quite so dangerous as the automobile driven at fifty or sixty miles an hour when it crashes into another machine, a tree or a telegraph pole. The science of aviation is claiming a heavy toll but in this respect it cannot compare with the automobile.

The Roosevelt managers are injecting the religious issue into the campaign against the president, charging that Major Butt, who was drowned in the Titanic disaster, had been sent on a secret mission to the Pope by President Taft. The president calls this lie, but it will be kept in circulation just the same.

The I. W. W. selected the wrong place for an inflammatory meeting when they settled on Wakefield. The chief of police of that town rivals our own in tact and daring.

The states must have some uniformity in holding the preferential primaries. It would be a great relief if all held their primaries on the same day.

Seen and Heard

At the meeting of the municipal council on Friday at which the expert accountant was present Mr. Barrett asked some pertinent questions as to the duties of a city auditor and it seems the impression went out in certain quarters that the questions asked by Mr. Barrett had to do with the present city auditor. None of the questions asked by Mr. Barrett reflected in any way upon City Auditor Paige. There had been considerable talk about the spending of money for other purposes than that for which it was appropriated and Mr. Barrett asked Mr. Rex if he thought that such expenditure would be sufficient cause for the discharge of an auditor and Mr. Rex said it would. The Huntington hall money was not in question at the time and as a matter of fact the Huntington hall money was paid the city before Mr. Paige became auditor. It is generally conceded that there is but one way out of the tangle at city hall, that the Huntington hall money and the Spanish funds have been spent there is no question, and the way to prevent a recurrence of such action is to adopt the ordinance as suggested by the expert accountant putting the auditor the general accountant for the city and holding him responsible for the proper expenditure of all moneys.

It used to be said that money makes the mare go. Now the automobile makes the mare go.

Say to a woman: "Your dog got into a tight today," and she will say: "Oh, dear!" Tell a man the same thing, and he will ask with interest: "Which dog licked?"

It is a mean man who urges a girl to sing at a party, and then gets out himself and leaves everybody else to suffer.

It is also a mean man who tells you that you have a spot on the back of your coat when you can't get it out and didn't know anything about it.

The man who always keeps an umbrella at the office against a rainy day seldom gets as much gratitude as he deserves from the other men in the office who are really sorry that the umbrella is in case of need, leaving him to go home in the rain uncovered.

Among the circulars received by Supt. Whitcomb from the department of the interior, bureau of education, is one setting forth Spain's novel plan to acquaint foreigners with its life and culture.

For the purpose of acquainting the hurried traveler with the glories, culture, and progress of Spain, the Spanish government has adopted the novel plan of establishing a holiday lecture and travel course for the special benefit of foreigners. This information was received by the United States bureau of education in the form of an announcement furnished by the Spanish legation at Washington.

The course is separated into two divisions. The first part, which is under the management of Professor Ramon Menendez y Pidal, will afford the foreigner an opportunity to acquaint himself with the fundamental ideas of the Spanish culture. The second part of the course consists of excursions to

Easy to Save Money This Way

Here is a way to save money, and save it quickly. Buy your household supplies at factory prices from the Larkin Co. It cuts your expense in half. The money you save is returned to you by the Larkin Co. in the form of extra household supplies, which you, yourself, select. The Larkin Product Price List describing this "Factory to Family" method of dealing is mailed free to anyone upon request. If you want to cut down your household expense, or to have extra money to spend, or extra money to save, write today, to the Larkin Co., Buffalo, N. public, historical, architectural, and art monuments, under the conduct of scholars whose demonstrations, according to the communication from Senator Don Juan Riano y Gayangos, the Spanish minister, "cannot but be incomparably superior to those offered by professional guides." The course will be held in Madrid as a headquarters from June 15 to July 24. Those who enroll are expected to have some knowledge of Spanish.

The lectures will give especial attention to the Spanish epic, to the lyrics as developed in various provinces, to the picturesque and regional novel, and to Cervantes. Other lectures will deal with the relations of the Spanish language to the French and Italian; with Iberian, Mozarabic, and "Mudejar" art, and with the political and social life of Spain in the nineteenth century. There will also be two illustrated lectures surveying Spanish art.

Each of the lectures of the history of Spanish literature will be followed by an hour of practical work on the text. There will also be a special class on Castilian phonetics and daily conversation classes. The principal museums of Madrid, especially the Prado, The Modern Art Museum, the Archaeological Museum, the Royal Armeria, will be visited, while excursions will be taken to Toledo, Escorial, Avila and Segovia. These trips will be in the charge of Dr. Manuel B. Cossio and Dr. Manuel Ganez Moreno, two authorities upon their subjects.

THE THINGS WE MEANT TO DO
We plan, and work, and loaf, and sleep,
And finish what we can,
And so in time we struggle through
The usual life of man.
We get on our feet, sometimes blame,
For what we've carried through,
But no one gives us credit for
The things we meant to do.

Now good intentions ought to count.
For something, ought they not.
Although a man does little, when
He means to do a lot?
The fault may not be wholly his,
And doubt it seems to you.
We ought to have some credit
For the things we meant to do.

VERY EXCELLENT SERVICE

Atmosphere of Comfort at Waverly Hotel

"When a man starts out to do something the success of which depends upon public patronage it behooves him to exert his very best efforts to please his customers and give the public what it wants."

This is the philosophy of Owen J. Carney, proprietor and manager of the Waverly hotel, and he is making good. He has made several changes in his hostelry of late and success has crowned his efforts to please. He has fitted up what a well known Eastern hotel man says is one of the prettiest and cosiest Dutch rooms in the country and the large dining room at the Waverly is unusually attractive and inviting.

EVERY THIRD LOOKING WOMAN

Wants to Know How to Avoid Appearing Old Before Her Time.

Some women always wear a worn, tired look. It is the outward sign of nervousness with its accompaniment of worry, headache and sleeplessness.

It is useless to tell some women to rest. Circumstances will not permit. But it is always possible to build up the strength to meet the strain.

Overwork seldom kills. Worry often does. If you would keep the worn look from your face strengthen your system with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and do not worry. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a blessing to women. They preserve the beauty that health alone can give, the youthful brightness of eye, the color in cheeks and lips that comes alone from rich, red blood.

Mrs. Philip H. Sparr, of No. 125 Smith street, South Portland, Me., says: "While attending school I caught cold and suffered from weakness for about a year. I was all run down and did not have a particle of color. My parents thought I was going into consumption. I was short of breath and was subject to fainting spells. My limbs seemed to go all flaccid out and I hardly had enough strength to get around. My stomach was so weak that whatever I ate caused me a great deal of pain. My kidneys were affected and I kept growing weaker. I finally had to quit school. I did not improve much under the doctor's treatment of about six months and later gave Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Soon I could see that I was gaining in flesh and strength. There was plenty of color in my cheeks. My appetite improved and I was cured. I certainly think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and cheerfully recommend them."

Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from your druggist today. Do not delay. Begin the treatment now. Write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., and learn what the pills have accomplished in cases like your own. If you cannot get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills readily near home send fifty cents for one box or $2.50 for a half dozen, by mail, postpaid.

Two helpful booklets, "Building Up the Blood" and "Plan Talks to Women," giving more information about the remedy will be sent free to any address on request.

simple refinement that hangs over the room. Quietness prevails. Soft red room lights which reflect from the student lamps on all the tables, cast their subdued rays about the room, emit just enough light to illumine it without producing an irritating glare. Around the many tables are to be seen guests "taking" to paraphrase a famous sentence, "their ease in their inn."

The number of conversation, the low laughter, the clinking of tableware immediately produces an agreeable effect on the newcomer for he takes his seat knowing that he will get mental, as well as physical benefit from the forthcoming meal. The furnishing of the room is simple and tasteful. The snow white linen is in harmony with the festooned ceiling, the potted palms are multiplied by the many mirrors that line the walls, and the old-fashioned curtains adorn the room with a touch of homelike beauty that is most pleasing to the eye. The service naturally is in keeping with the up-to-date tone of the room itself. Whatever may appeal to the palate is to be had. Under the skillful direction of a corps of chefs a menu is prepared each day that will please the tastes of a diner of the most capricious disposition. In speaking of a hotel of this description it is, of course, needless to specify the hundred and one odd dishes that can be had, and had quickly, in the Waverly's dining room. The young women who wait on the guests are adepts in their work. Courteous, attentive, and intelligent, they are as competent a group of attendants as may be found in any hotel in the country.

With the facilities for giving the best service and with an apartment which in furnishing is of a metropolitan character, it is not surprising that the Waverly's dining room is popular with the business and professional men throughout this section of the United States. Automobile parties passing through Lowell from cities between Portland and New York also know of the excellent service which is to be had there and Lowell people who are particular regarding their food and its serving make this dining room their meeting place.

MAYOR FITZGERALD

MAY BE CHAIRMAN OF NATIONAL CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The prediction is being made by Massachusetts democrats, it was learned here yesterday, that Mayor Fitzgerald will be selected to serve as either permanent or temporary chairman of the Baltimore convention.

The mayor will come to Baltimore not only as one of the foremost democrats of Massachusetts, but also with the prestige of his state's endorsement for the vice presidency. Having been elected a delegate-at-large, favorable to the governor of his state, he will go into the convention unhampered by allegiances to any of the leading candidates for the presidential nomination. He can be counted as impartial and that will be an asset for him in connection with his duties as either temporary or permanent chairman.

CLOSING SERVICE OF P. M. CONFERENCE

Held at Lawrence Street P. M. Church

The farewell service in connection with the twenty-first annual conference of the Eastern district of the Primitive Methodists was held at the Lawrence street church last evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. John T. Ullom, pastor, presided. After the singing of the hymn "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name" the opening prayer was given by Rev. A. King-Collect. The church choir then sang an anthem. The pastor then called upon Rev. T. M. Bateman, who gave an interesting talk on "The Pleasures of the Ministry."

Mr. Eli Turner of this city, one of the early laymen of the church in New England and one of the few remaining lay preachers holding a perpetual license to preach and to marry in the Primitive Methodist church was called upon to tell of the church in the days gone by, from a layman's point of view.

Rev. T. M. Barlow, spoke on "The Relation of the Pastor's Wife to the Church." Rev. N. W. Matthews, president of the conference spoke on the topic, "The Relation of the Church to the Pastor's Wife." Just before starting his address, Mr. Matthews opened a side door and David Allen entered with a large package which he presented to the pastor in behalf of the congregation. Upon opening the package it was found to be a large carbon picture of the pastor handsomely framed. Mr. Ullom thanked his friends in a most graceful speech. Mr. Matthews then delivered his address, which was very humorous and interesting.

Rev. W. B. Taylor then read the resolutions adopted by the conference.

Rev. John T. Ullom made a short speech in behalf of his congregation, expressing the pleasure which his congregation had had in entertaining the members of the conference and after the singing of the hymn, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," Rev. T. M. Bateman, D. D., pronounced the benediction.

DIVORCED PERSONS MUST HAVE PAPERS

Before They Can Get Marriage Licenses

Hereafter divorced persons desirous of getting married will have to prove their title clear to that privilege, for the legislature itself hath said it. There was a time when the divorced person could go to the city clerk and get a marriage license by answering a few simple questions but hereafter the clerk will be from Missouri, so to speak, and he will have to be shown. The act reads as follows:

Section 1.—Persons applying for a marriage license. In cases in which one or both of the persons desiring to marry have previously been married and divorced, shall accompany their application for the license by a certificate or certified copy from the clerk or corresponding official of the court or other tribunal by which the divorce was granted, showing the title and location of the parties to the proceeding for divorce, and showing which party obtained the divorce, the cause thereof, and the date when the decree became absolute. If there has been more than one divorce the said certificate or certified copy as to every such divorce shall accompany the application.

Section 2.—If a person is unable to obtain the certificate or certified copy described in the foregoing section, he shall apply to the judge of the probate court in the county where the license is desired and state under oath the facts required to be stated in the said certificate or certified copy, and the reasons why such certificate or certified copy cannot be obtained. The judge of probate, if satisfied of the truth of the statements so made to him, shall thereupon grant to the party a certificate stating the facts required, and such certificate shall be attached to the marriage license, if it is granted.

Section 3.—It shall be unlawful for a city or town clerk, and in the city of Boston for the registrar of births, deaths and marriages, to issue a marriage license in the cases above described, unless it is accompanied by the certificate or certified copy described in section one or the certificate described in section two, and in such cases, if he issues the license, he shall be liable to a fine of not more than $100.

another-in-law, the late Mrs. H. A. Russell which will take place tomorrow morning.

The house of Alex Peterson at Whitcomb's corner, West Chelmsford, was entered by a burglar Friday night, but he was scared away before he got hold of anything.

The Fitchburg High School Alumni Association has invited Rev. Charles T. Billings of this city to deliver the address at the unveiling of the Hartwell memorial tablet at the high school on June 24.

WHAT JUDGE PICKMAN SAID
By printing the word "fairly" for "unfairly" in a headline yesterday Judge Pickman was quoted as saying: "He did not believe the minority would be fairly treated under home rule," exactly the opposite of what he did say as appeared from an accurate report of his speech in another column.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Michael's church rectory at 11 o'clock this morning, when Dr. Michael A. Tighe, city physician, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Tighe of Chicago, Ill., was united in marriage to Miss Helen R. Cahill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cahill of 61 Durant street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of the church. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Mary Cahill, Duggan and the best man was Hon. John T. Sparks, a close friend of the groom. The bride looked charming in a gown of white Duchess satin, trimmed with old point lace. She wore a veil of old point lace and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

How to See Colorado and the Yellowstone

By all means make your plans include Colorado. A week of that glorious air will do you good for a lifetime. And that wonderful sky. Even Italy cannot match it for clear, deep, turquoise beauty. Then the mountains—they tower above you everywhere seeming to raise your spirit with them into the cool and restful cloudland. It's a new experience. But you must also see the Yellowstone to complete your vacation. And it's easy if you take advantage of the reduced fare rates offered to summer travelers. Your ticket will take you through Colorado, the Royal Gorge and on to Salt Lake City and then swing you northward to the wonderful Yellowstone country. Neither pictures nor words can give you an idea of the beauty of the geysers, mud volcanoes, brilliantly colored rocks, mysterious rivers, thundering waterfalls, precipices, chasms, canyons and the million-year old mountains you will see there. Your trip will give you a fresh enthusiasm.

I am employed by the Burlington Route to answer all your questions. I'll tell you the best places to see and your our handsome folders, and even arrange to get your tickets and Pullman berth of you'll write telling me about when you would like to go. When you write me, a postal will do. Alex Stocks, New England Pass. Agt., C. P. & O. R. Co., 241 Washington street, Boston.
